THE VIEW '87

Distinguishing characteristics Monte Vista definitely has them. From the gates demarking the parking lot entrances, to the mysterious residence behind the science building, certain aspects of the school draw more attention and speculation than others.

Upon closer inspection, it is easy to see that it is the people of MVHS who make it so diverse. The teachers, from the back-to-basics math teacher, to the extremely bizarre science teacher, seem to rub off on the students. (or is it the other way around?)

When an event such as Homecoming or an impending holiday hits the campus, the school takes on an entirely new look. Scanning the hallways, it is not uncommon to see people dressed up as babies, nerds, hippies, and even an occasional Santa Claus. The school is often transformed, truly a sight to behold.

This spirit extends to the rallies, where all four classes display just what the word spirit means. The classes compete fiercely for possession of the spirit blanket, with the prospect of a sporting victory later that night.

Each person who is a part of the Monte Vista scene has his or her own perception and point of view, and each is worthy of respect and consideration. It is our intention as the staff of La Vista '87, to give the reader a glimpse of Monte Vista, its people, events, and achievements.

We have taken the long overview and the specific close-ups. We hope you enjoy reviewing, getting a glimpse of the past year.

SURVEYS & STATISTICS: POINTS OF VIEW This year we are featuring the statistical data gathered from various surveys of students, faculty and parents. In keeping with our theme, The View of Monte Vista, we are publishing survey results which help us to get the points of view of the school community on a whole variety of questions.

WHAT HAVE WE SENIORS LEARNED IN FOUR YEARS

We all despise the question, what have you learned after four years of high school? In our own minds, we know we have learned all sorts of things, from the history of Latin America, the theories of Freud, to the significant numbers of physics. All those hours of tedious study seem to have flown right by, yet having to pin point something in specific is virtually impossible.

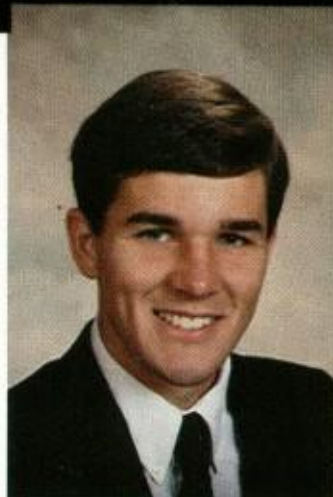

Unfortunately we remember the headaches Mr. Strand's ties gave us, and the fatal rap of Mr. Lindberg's ruler. No one could ever forget the monotonous voice over the loud speaker echoing day after day, "Good morning, today is June twelfth," etc.

We can all remember the good things about our high school years. Remember the time when that special someone invited you to be his/her date to the Homecoming dance and your heart stopped and your knees turned to jello? Or the time our worst enemy tripped over the invisible step in the hall in the midst of passing, to everybody's amusement.

No one ever forgets that first love, best friends, or the one Friday night of the year when the police never did find that party!

How is it that we are not able to remember how to complete a geometry proof or a civics midterm? Why do we forget to do our homework when we can remember the directions to the keg after school?

All the facts and figures that clutter the dark regions of our brains are very important, yet maybe that isn't what high school is all about. Perhaps it is about growing up, learning to love and having fun. After all, someone once said; that the best school anyone could ever attend is the school of life. In part that is what Monte Vista has been to each and every one of us.

Choose a major in college before you have even graduated from high school? Well, Monte Vista students seem to either plan well ahead (huh?) or they have big ideas. Clearly most of us think we know what we are interested in studying. Here's some people's ideas:

Mimi Horton says, "I plan to Major in liberal arts because it will widen the variety of career choices after I graduate."

Kim Fagg states, "I'll probably do something in the field of medicine, like physical therapy."

"I want to major in communications because I want to be in a profession that I can express myself in, after college, and I believe, I can do it." says Jeff Brown.

Mike Weiner states, "I want to major in business because I am going to be an executive of my own company."

The senior class consists of a variety of different people with different tastes for different kinds of music. Asking our seniors we found music performance ranged from the mellow sounds of Phil Collins to the rappin' music of Run D.M.C. still the variety continues with the strong beat of Van Halen to the modern sounds of INXS and U2. KMEL is a popular favorite among seniors and the favorites fell in far behind.

University, Junior College, Ivy League, Private; so many choices if you have the right grades, a high enough S.A.T. and enough money. But where do M.V. students want to attend college? Seniors Survey The Silver Screen

Through the action-packed, partying days of their last high school year, M.V. Seniors still obviously found some empty evenings and unfulfilled nights. On such evenings, students would inevitably turn up at the local movie theatre, where they usually spotted a few of their peers as well. Seniors certainly had some class favorites. Top Gun flew to the top as Seniors ranked their favorite movies, with Stand By Me and 16 Candles quick to follow.

Seniors Moving Up To SENIORITY

Thinking back over our high school years, memories flood the mind. Freshman year everything seemed so new, so big, and so different. It seemed as though we'd never reach our Senior year.

Sophomore year took us one step closer as we made new friends along the way. Then came our Junior year, adding new and interesting aspects to our lives, such as driving and dating. Each of us changed in a different and unique way. We were brought all the more close to our friends and peers. This was the last step of the climb to our senior year.

Seniors at last! All the ultimate superiority and infinite senior privileges became ours. We quickly took over the reign on the senior benches, and our self-importance was obvious as we strutted through the halls with underclassmen dodging out of our way. Daily donut and coffee runs became a must if one was to make it through the school day. When reapproaching the overcrowded parking lot, many Seniors took the initiative in inviting themselves to the forbidden Teachers' parking lot.

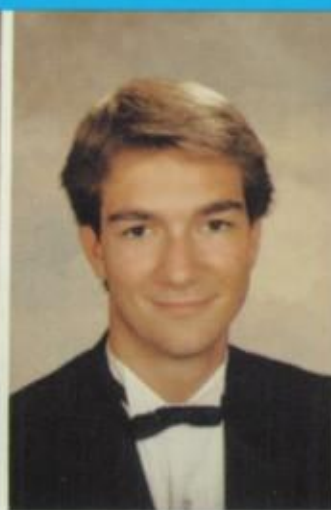

Academically we laid way back. Our major challenge was just getting to class. Homework finally became a thing of the past, as the majority of the Seniors took two periods of Art and at least two T.A.'s.

More importantly, our class quickly united and the unique and strong bond was obvious to many. The cliques and different groups of past years disintegrated, and our class became unified. At last the Class of 1987 was able to look beyond the surface, and true, lasting friendships were made. Whether we were in the classroom, at a party, the movies, dancing, or any other social event, we Seniors have had plenty of good times, and we have many memories to cherish. In the years ahead when we're in college, our superiority complex may fade or even disappear, yet all these special memories will stay with us always.

Seniors' Favorite Vacation Spots

Now that our senior year is over many Monte Vista seniors can be found at . . . THE BEACH!!! The majority of us surf-bound Seniors choose Hawaii as the numero uno vacation spot, but we can also be found lounging on any beach from Santa Cruz to Figi to Bora Bora. The more adventurous of our Senior class can be found on a European adventure, exploring such places as France, England, and Switzerland. Whether our thrill-seeking seniors venture to the unknown lands of Europe or the familiar beaches of Santa Cruz, we are sure to find excitement and good times ahead!!!

How old are Denise and Laura?

SENIORITIS

And Other Contagious Diseases

Apathy. Procrastination. Indolence. Neutrality. Laziness. These are the most common symptoms of the high school disease known as senioritis. Occurring predominantly during the second semester, it strikes the Monte Vista campus with a fierce blow as the school year winds down. Drove of seniors slip into the unavoidable condition known as senioritis. (not be be confused with a similar disease affecting underclassmen: Spring Fever.)

Schoolwork takes the back burner as seniors come to the realization that second semester grades have little bearing on college acceptance or other future plans. The countdown begins-graduation is in the near future, senior activities are beginning to take place, and trivial activities such as tests, notes, labs, and final exams become things which are unworthy of more than just a fleeting thought.

Fortunately, graduation marks the end of senioritis, allowing seniors to fully enjoy their summer. This dread disease departs from the victims of the class of 1987, and moves on to plague the incoming senior class.

Out The Door And Off We Go To College Ho, Ho, Ho

Just one more suitcase to put in the family wagon. Remnants still remain; my beach chair, my favorite fuzzy socks the collection of pictures displaying fond high school memories, and last but not least my good 'ole teddy bear, which I secretly slip into my suitcase.

My room, once bright and cluttered to the ceiling, is now dark and empty without my personal decor. I reluctantly closed the door behind me with one last look. Second thoughts were triggering the butterflies in my stomach, after four years of anticipation you would think I'd be packed and ready for college yesterday!

I am finally on my own in a world of countless new faces and places. College is a scary transition for someone my age but it will open new doors in a life I have dreamt of since grade school.

Going away to college is a big step for all of us graduating seniors of 1987. It brings a new freedom and individuality and it brings us one step closer to the real world. High school is left as only a book of memories, while college becomes the main interest.

College will force each of us to become a person, responsible for his/her own actions. We will experience more of a freedom. Free to eat what and when we want and free to stay out as late as we want. College will give us room to grow and mature without smothering us in trends or rules. Even though we will end our stay here at Monte Vista remember you are just opening a door to a new world full of opportunities. GOOD LUCK AND HAPPY TRAILS TO THE WHOLE SENIOR CLASS!!

A POINT OF VIEW

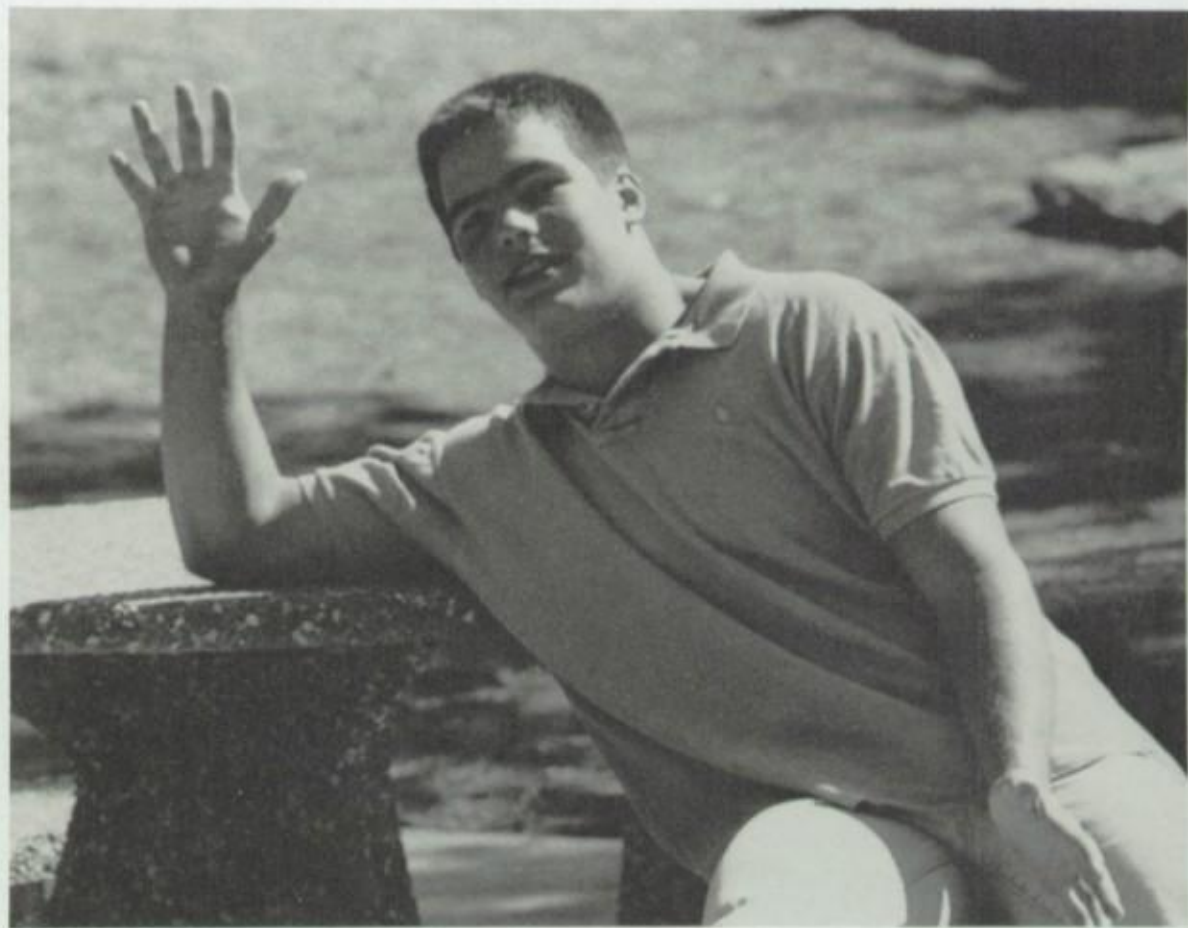

On September 2nd, 1986, the Class of '88 crossed that illustrious threshold into the world of "upperclass-people." We can finally look around and see people shorter than us. (And girls, haven't the guys gotten taller?) Our newly acquired title must be obvious, we are now asked where the parties are. But we are also responsible for shoving, laughing at, and stepping on the lower classmen. Were we ever that immature?

New opportunities have opened up for us. Having a driver's license means that you can get the car, which means fun is only a gallon of gas away. Going out to lunch is a daily occurrence now. We know all the cashiers at Peter Pipers by name, as with the Danville cops.

On the more serious side, college is no longer that far off, and our Junior year is the most important and tortuous. Classes such as Chemistry, U.S. History, and Algebra 2 are stepping stones to a "good college." The initials S.A.T. now put fear in our hearts.

This is the year when you begin planning for the Junior Prom in September, and your parents have become miraculously more lenient and curfews have been extended (somewhat). Some of us have even found that we can juggle school and a part-time job.

It may seem like a lot to handle, but we're willing. Besides, each weekend brings us closer to the ultimate goal, to be a Senior!

Trent Waschner gives us a high five.

Five minutes had passed when we finally reached my car in the Monte Vista Parking lot. Four of us piled into the Honda CRX my parents had given me for my sixteenth birthday two weeks earlier. Still a rank amateur at driving a stick-shift, I turned the key in the ignition and, neglected to push in the clutch, sent the auto plummeting forward. I turned to face my friends who stared in astonishment at my tremendous driving inability. Then, we all giggled girlishly as I tried again. This time the car started with no problems. I slowly let out the clutch, giving the engine far too much gas. The gears engaged and the car shot forward over the parking block, striking the 2002 series BMW in front of me. I put the car in reverse and exited my space.

We got in line behind the other hundred cars hoping to make it into Alamo or Danville and back, without being tardy to sixth period. Then John and Eddie saw a woman asking directions from cars in front of us. Slowly she approached us.

"Can I see your lunch pass?" she questioned.

"Uh ... da ... gee. Mine's at home. Da."

"Well then, I'm afraid you can't go off campus."

We all uttered vulgarities as we returned to my space. One of the other passengers, Paul, was brainstorming the whole time, and like, we didn't even know it.

"Hey, why don't we go over the sidewalk next to the anti-go-out-to-lunch-without-a-pass gate like all the cool Seniors are doing?" commented Paul.

Now there was an idea.

We all congratulated Paul as the car jumped over the sidewalk, not knowing that we had just scraped the muffler clean off. Now, here was the big decision. Where were we to go?

We all headed down Stone Valley Road, listening to Huey Lewis and debating as to which place we should go to. Eddie suggested that we go to Brass Bear. That sounded okay by me, so we continued down Stone Valley Road and turned right, then left, into Alamo Plaza. I parked the car, tripped into the delicatessen, and got into line. Ten minutes passed and the line, which was supposed to get shorter, gradually got longer. Some Senior guys approached.

"Hey, we're cutting in line. Okay?" said one of the bulky Seniors.

This was our big chance to get in good with the cool guys!

"My pleasure." Adolescence caused my voice to shriek in the middle of my reply. "So where are the parties this Friday?"

"Meet us at Kentucky Fried at three p.m.," said the other bulky man.

"Thanks, dude," Eddie said.

We got our lunches, ate them quickly, stalled the car, and headed for school. I pulled into the circle and was faced with the same lady who had stopped us previously.

"Have you got a pass yet?"

she asked.

"Um, ga ... da. no." I replied.

"Well, then, I think your next five lunches will be spent here, with a Hefty bag. Names?"

Whether it's spreading ketchup on hamburgers at a local burger joint, or selling Sno-cones for a quarter, Juniors view California as a place where money is the only way of life. Without it, forget about that used Country Squire you've been thinking of buying, as with going on a date with that beautiful blonde to San Francisco. Yes, we've all found that without the dough, the weekend vacationing time is usually spent mowing the neighbor's yard or babysitting their bratty kids. Washing your parent's car twice a week, even if it isn't dirty, is a common occurrence now for those without a "real" job.

It seems that this is the year when our parents have reason not to give us allowance, standing by the clause,

"You're old enough to have a job." And you leave the room before they begin again on how they had to pay for room and board when they were nine.

Instead of cheap rust colored corduroys and hand-me-down plaid shirts, we've found that trendy, and costly clothesware eats up at our pocketbooks. This is the year when a Friday night movie costs you six dollars, and an aching back from digging ditches for $3.35 an hour. These are the years when you park in the teacher's parking lot and are fined a plentiful sum; you need a calculator with sine, which runs around twenty bucks; a ten dollar entrance fee into the computer class; mousses for hair is another six bucks; deli sandwiches, discluding cheese, are around three dollars; and the winter holidays, woah!, some kids still have a debt three months later.

Your answer, "There's no place to work around here," just won't work on your parental units. They know that there's some slavedriver here in Danville or Alamo just waiting to add you to his payroll. But the ploy that has worked for many is the, "These are the most important years of my life, and having a job would be detrimental to my studies." Now, with your parents paying for your so-called "needs" of twinkees for lunch and money for the copying machine at school, it's all downhill from there.

Yes, our Junior year is minus one more until your parents detach you from their "free-money line". So, whenever it's possible, use that "just in case" money they give you when you go on a trip or out on a date, for in a year or so, it may be too late!

S.A.T. BLUES

piculture? Huh? This word could mean anything from the applications of Benign Protanoic Molecules to the migratory study of bees, how should I know? This is only my first problem, the tip of my eraserless pencil just broke, and my stomach keeps growling. I didn't have any breakfast because the electricity went off last night, resetting my alarm clock, so I woke up late. Realizing that if I didn't take this S.A.T. I wouldn't have a score to send to colleges, I sped to the test center. Standing in the emergency standby line, I forked over twenty five bucks and went to my class. I knew a few of the kids in there, and they all looked at my frizzy hair, since I didn't have enough time to wash it . . .

Just when you thought High School was an enjoyable experience; take this quite normal student here at Monte Vista High, and introduce him, or her, to an array of non-vernacular literary problems, add a few thousand advanced-calculus math problems, and there you have it, the S.A.T., and one problematic student.

What is the solution, you ask? Prepare for the S.A.T. Buy one of the S.A.T. preparation books and test yourself. Go to sleep early on the night before the test, even though your parents went squaredancing and you have the car all night. Most importantly, take the test seriously, for its results may decide your future.

WORKING

Did you just start going out with "that" girl who loves going out to dinner and a movie, and makes you pay? Just buy a red-toed iguana and didn't realize how much frozen mice would cost to feed it? Did your boyfriend just wreck your mom's brand new ten-speed bike trying to impress you by jumping over an embankment while riding down Mt. Diablo?

Well, if you answered, "Yes" to one of these questions or had any correlation to one then you've got a problem. And the solution that many Monte Vistans have come upon has been, "I need a job."

There are mixed viewpoints from Juniors here at Monte Vista. Some relinquish that having a job builds character and teaches aesthetic values. Others, though, believe that holding a job deteriorates their studying capabilities.

No matter what the argument, there's always places of hire here in Danville. So when you're down and out, mainly out of cash, don't "accidentally" tape a half-gross of bottle rockets to your red-toed Iguana and throw a lit match on it, get a job and learn to be responsible.

THE WEEKEND

It's a Friday night, I'm watching Miami Vice. I have nothing better to do, after all, being a Junior isn't all it's cracked up to be. It's been the same thing, week after week since school started. I thought I'd get new privileges for being an upperclassman. But no!

All my friends have told me of the things they do on the weekends, and that they say they called me, but either no one was home or the phone was busy. How could that be? I'm never on the phone except for using my modem, but that stopped working three weeks ago when I fell asleep using my computer and it caught on fire.

I'll never forget that weekend, but hence onward, I discovered that, without my computer, I seemed to associate more with my supposed friends, and now this night, they actually called me.

I jumped from the sofa, hoping that the caller wouldn't hang up before the second ring, and I lifted the receiver. "Hullo?"

"Jay? This is Otto, lets go out with Eddie and Milo to a gig, I think Kraftwerk is in town." Kraftwerk! Their song, pocket calculator, was my favorite.

"Yea, I'd love to!" He answered with, "Ok, pick us up in your van, now. Bye."

A problem came to mind then, which car did my parents take to their square-dancing fest? Running outside, I saw to my relief that they took the Pacer. I picked up all my pals and we ventured into San Francisco. The concert, being my first, was loud, but I loved the music. We finally ended up at 7-11 in Alamo, and to top off the night, we played hide-and-seek around Alamo Plaza, and I won! Dryers in the laundromat are the greatest place to hide.

From my experience this night, I realized how important it is to keep things in moderation, unlike how I was devoted to my computer. From this I learned that by trying new things not only broadens one's perspectives on life, but teaches you something different about yourself every moment.

ENDING HIGH SCHOOL- A JUNIOR'S THOUGHTS

When I think about the end of high school, I feel many different emotions. One of that first comes to my mind is the sense of freedom. This is a familiar emotion as many seniors I know have told me. One has the freedom to begin planning out their future. There's no more of being babied-around by adults or teachers - the choice is purely your own. No one knows what might lay ahead in the future, so the decisions must be of your own choice. I know that some people look forward to this freedom, and some are not quite ready or mature enough to handle it.

Another emotion that I'm sure I would feel is fear. Fear of facing the "real world" that lay in store for me. Responsibility is the number one asset to have. If one plans to go to college, he or she must remember that they have to want to go; not because their parents want them to go. There is a tremendous amount of self-reliance and self-decision making when attending college. If you want to cut class, it's your responsibility to catch-up on your own and to teach yourself what was missed. The professors don't care whether or not you were sick or went to the beach that day.

Of course, there's always the "clincher" and that is having to say good-bye to everyone of your friends and the people who you've spent the past four years with. It's a time to remember good-times, and happy and sad memories that may make you laugh or cry all over again. It's a time to say good-bye to parents watching over your every move.

In closing, High school years are years to be remembered for the rest of your life. Make these years the best they can be so at the end of high school, you can say to yourself I want the rest of my life to be as enjoyable as high school was.

Most of us don't realize how fortunate we are to live in our great state of California. Think about it. Where else can you do so much? We have everything for every taste.

If you love snow skiing, this is the place. Squaw Valley, Northstar, Heavenly Valley, are just a few of the many great skiing places. California has some of the best skiing in the whole country, and some of the most beautiful National Parks and wildlife. Whether you go to the mountains, or to Yosemite, or even to Death Valley, there are all types of climates here in California.

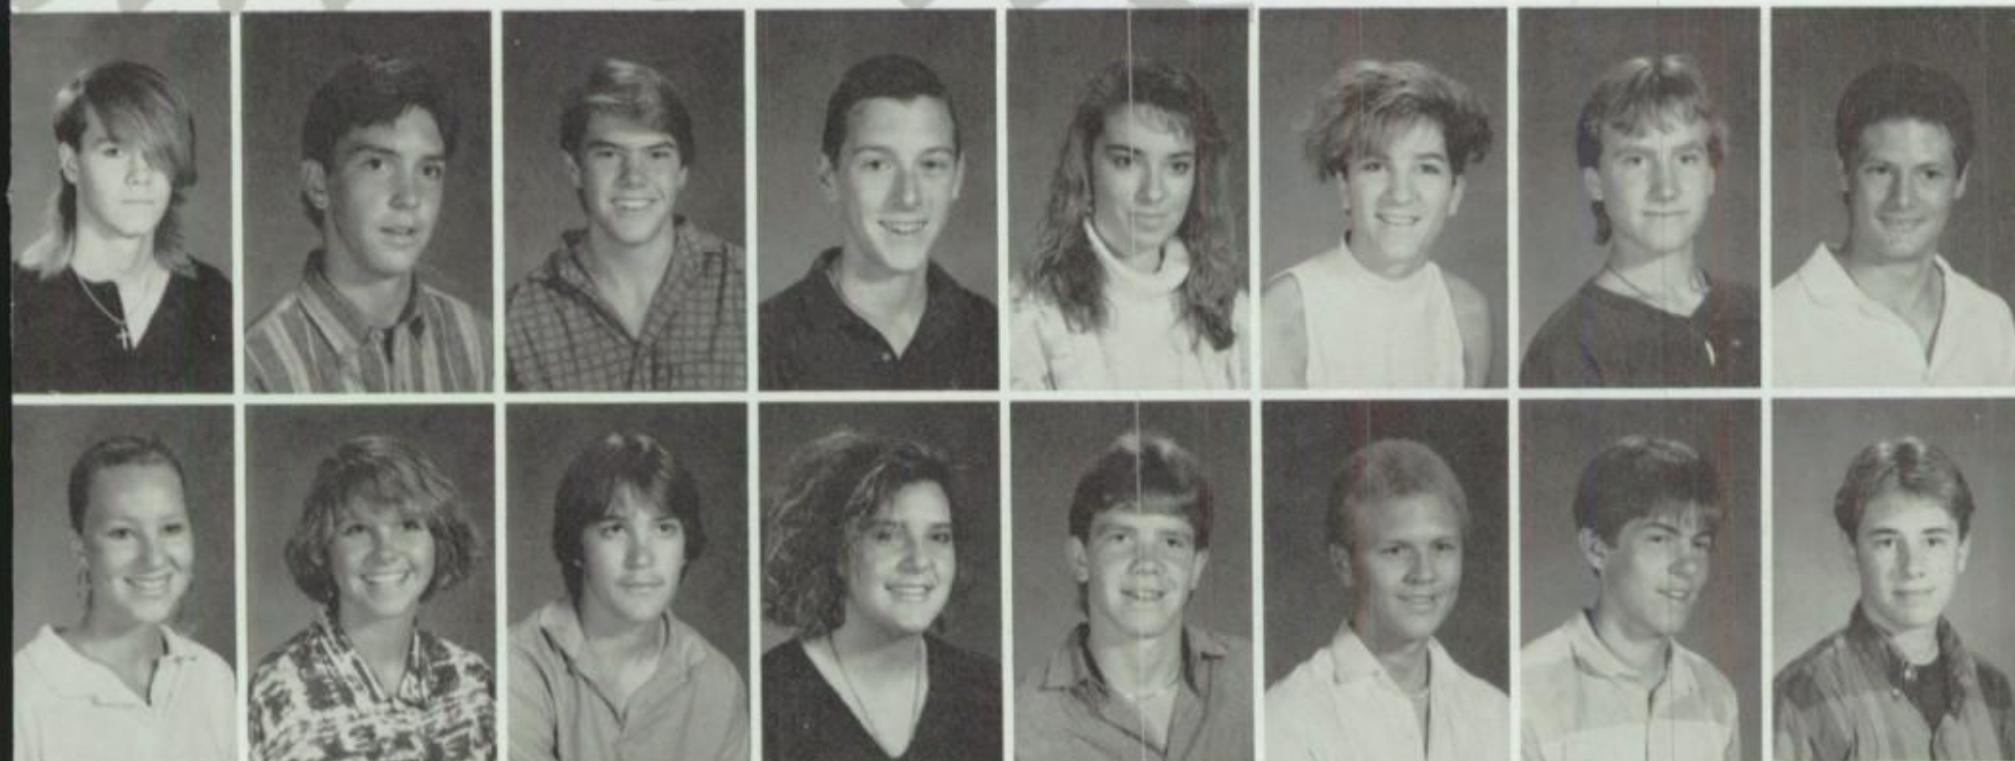

And the beaches. Oh, the beaches! Huntington, Newport, Santa Cruz, just to name a few. We have some of the best beaches in the world with some of the greatest surfing.

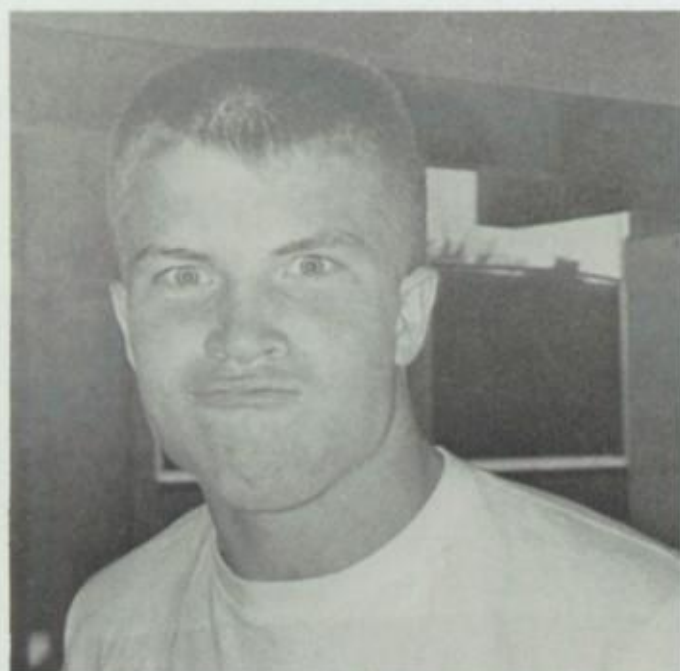

California is great if you love sports. There is every conceivable sport here: Pro, College, or High School. Some of the best professional football, basketball, and baseball teams are in California.

If you want an education, you're in the right state. Stanford, Cal, UCLA, and USC are four of the best schools in the country. Anything you want to study can be found at some of the colleges and Universities here.

Possibly the best aspect of life here in California is that it is so laid-back. You can be your own person out here. You can do anything you want to. If you did some of the things that you do here out on the East coast, people would probably think you're crazy. All types of people are here, and we intermix well.

California is the best state. No other state offers half as much as California does. We're the lucky ones. And we know it. I wouldn't trade it for the world.

chool spirit: it is seen all over campus here at Monte Vista. A good example of this phenomenon are the rallies which attract not only the students, but parents and faculty as well. The feeling the rallies give off really gets people pumped up with excitement, and the speeches given by the coaches get the football or basketball players riled up for the big game. Rallies not only reassure the players of the support behind them, but create an air of unity for the entire student body. The cheerleaders' routines get really exciting, and all the boys yelp and holler at them. It's totally funny. As my crowd stands up, waving our hands and screaming '88, I know that tomorrow I'll have a sore throat, but it's worth it. Well, to Juniors there's yet another year of rallies, but there's only one year left of them. So let's win that symbol of our class's spirit, the blanket, or whatever it was this year. But I know I'll always remember the great times I had at the rallies.

Rippin It Up

ing a ling a ding," said the phone.

"Hullo?" I asked.

"Hey Milo, this is Derek ... you know, from the computer room."

"What do you want?" I replied, half in surprise, half in disgust.

"Just kidding, this is Otto. Errerr."

"Oh, Otto, huh, I thought you were really Derek," I said letting out a sigh of relief.

"Yeah, I used my new, integrated voice synthesizer. That's why I sounded so much like him." Otto continued, "So anyway, what are you doing tonight? It is Saturday you know."

"Um, well, um, I'm going to the Dance tonight," I mumbled.

"Did you say Dance? Can Eddie and I come? he asked excitedly.

"You, you want to come?" I stuttered in surprise.

"Sure, It'd be great. You, me, and Eddie - and maybe even some girls - ripping up the dance floor."

"Well, o.k. Pick me up at eight." He said he'd see me then.

I had just about finished the cherries jubilee my mom had cooked that day with the Coleman stove I had given her for Christmas, when the guys arrived, hooting and galloping to my door. The clothes they were wearing were appalling. I set them straight by letting them borrow a pair of my socks and two of my favorite ties. They gave my mom a bouquet of flowers from our yard which were supposed to be entered in next month's Botony & Sod convention, then we left in Otto's Dad's restored ice-cream truck. I asked the guys for a sno-cone, but Eddie said that the freezers weren't working. We boogied to Banarama's "Venus" all the way there. On the way, we saw some hot lookin' chicks, on the freeway driving a Corvette. We tried to follow them, punching the truck into fourth gear, but the RPM meter on the dash was at four and a half and we were going 45 miles per hour. So it was kinda hard to keep up with them in the fast lane. I then told the guys the story about Hot Plate Annie, and I was in the middle of telling them of her piping hot dishes and her gangrene fingers, when we pulled into the church parking lot with the ice-cream melody blaring. I went inside first and got two passes for Eddie and Otto. The names on the passes were Melba and Bubbles, these girls I know, and by some miraculous fate, the guys got in. They seemed a little pretentious and out of place when we entered the converted basketball gym/dance floor, but within a few minutes, they were jiving with the rest of us to tunes varying from Amy Grant to Stryper.

After the exhausting dance, we all crashed at Otto's home and told ghost stories and played Twister with his kitty.

I think I learned from Eddie and Otto this night, that when you are put in an unfamiliar place with unknown people, that you should just make the best of it, and you'll probably have an awesome time. Like they did. Rip it up!

"Hey, Marty," said mom, "why don't you go outside to get some fresh air and exercise?"

"Oh, gee, mom. Let me see the end of Three's Company. This is the one where Jack makes dates with two girls and..."

"Shoosh, you nimblewood," she interrupted. "Why don't you gather some buddies together and play lawn darts?"

She was right. I was getting a little out of shape since I didn't have a P.E. class this year, my so-called relaxing Junior Year. The most exercise I got in the last five months was getting up to answer the phone, and it only rang once. Anyway, lawn darts was high on the physical fitness activity list. So I kicked it into gear and called all of my friends (all two of them) Milt and Zeke. Our meeting place would be the Alamo Plaza, the ultimate lawn darts arena.

Turning into the parking lot, I immediately saw my friends limbering up in preparation. Stretching exercises are vital in preventing sports injuries. Anyway, there they were, awaiting my arrival. I pulled up along side them and honked the horn. Simultaneously they let out screams of delight.

"Hey guys, let's get to darting. Heh, arrarrar," I yelled enthusiastically.

So we were off. Milt started it all off with a fairly good throw that fell about six feet short of the hoop. I let go of a pretty fair shot which landed about eight and a half feet short of the target. Then Zeke went. I could not believe it. He is in such good shape that he overshot the target by about twelve feet and put a hole in that sign at the main entrance. Well, this was so much fun that we all fell down and broke into hysterical laughter. I laughed so hard that I got stomach cramps and had to sit the next two rounds out. Recovering rather quickly, I entered the intense competition and, I feel safe to say, fared extremely well. After three more matches, we started a fourth but were incapable of finishing due to health reasons, we became winded and quit.

On the whole, I think we all pretty much gained a new perspective on recreation and health, and a new perspective on life. Following the athletic event of the century, I never felt more like a complete person.

The crowd gets rowdy at the lawn-darts championships.

FRIENDS

Friends. How many of us have them? Sure you can say that you have a lot of friends, but is there one person that will always be there in times of need? Friends are something that most of us don't really think about much. My dad always said that if you have one real friend, then that's more than most people have. I guess he is right because I know a lot of people in trouble that cannot share their problems with anyone. For those of you who have someone to lean on, I hope you realize how lucky you are. You should never put a friendship on shaky ground for any reason. A real friend will help you in a time of need. And you will help someone if you are a real friend to them. Because, a friend in need, is a friend who needs help.

Shannon gets a "friendly" lift.

CHEATERS NEVER PROSPER

Last year I was in Basic Concepts class for the spring semester. The final came up and I found myself in desperate need of an "A". An "A" on the final would equal an "A" in the class. And an "A" in Basic Concepts would salvage my G.P.A. There was so much to know on the final, that I would have to cheat. The night before the final I spent three hours making 3x5 cards of cheating material. These cheat cards would be carefully hidden in the side pockets of my painter pants. I would wear these pants the next day. The painter pants were known to close friends and relatives as my "cheating pants." They never failed, until that faithful Basic Concepts final day.

I started on the test with my 3x5 cards carefully stashed. The test was "Scan-Tron" or as we called it "Scam-Tron." I had finished the first fifty-eight questions with no problem. The cards were doing me quite a service. Then my pencil broke. I got up to sharpen it and the 3x5 cards fell out of my pocket, and onto the floor. I was caught, failed the test, lost my "A".

My second year of Basic Concepts has taught me a lesson in cheating. Don't! Now, I'm getting an "A" without cheating. All of my "Freshman" classmates think I'm a brain. If they only knew.

Nancy Mayer, is that really your own work?

ALL KINDS?

The Yearbook class took a survey of this year's sophomores in an effort to find out what type of people make up their class. We surveyed 326 people and asked them how they described themselves. A large majority of the class (56%) consider themselves just plain old NORMAL (though we're sure others would beg to differ). 18% of the class consider themselves to be WEVERS, 11% actually considered themselves NERDS (they must be to admit it). Another 8% consider themselves TRENDY, 6% MOD, and 2% PUNK. There are obviously a wide variety of types of people in the sophomore class.

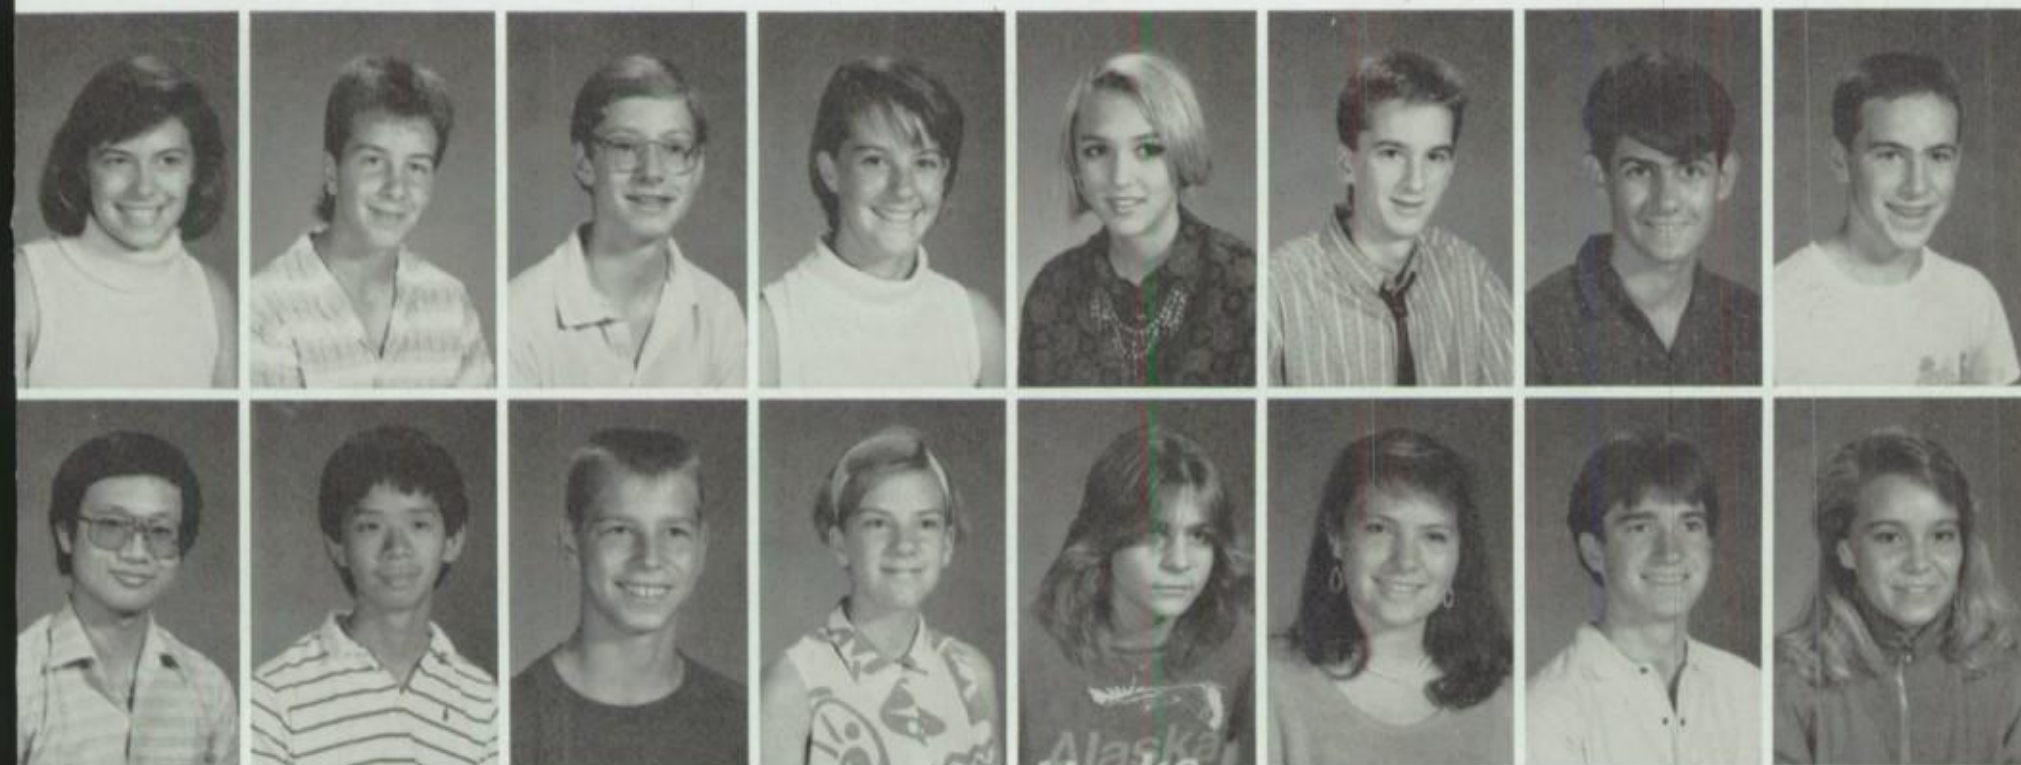

As in any group, most people are indeed "normal". But it should be pointed out that this class is very concerned about being normal. Normal, an impossible term to define sociologically, is a natural desire among most teenagers who have a way of following the crowd. Those who see themselves otherwise are interestingly different and perhaps ought to be praised for it.

"How Would You Describe Yourself???"

"NORMAL"	182	56%
"NEW WEVER"	57	18%
"NERDY"	37	11%
"TRENDY"	26	8%
"MOD"	18	6%
"PUNK"	6	2%

THE SOUNDS OF MUSIC

Monte Vista is a prime example of a school with varying musical tastes. Just by walking through the halls, one can see the different musical tastes that exist at Monte Vista. The mods are in their studded leather, and the metal lovers are in their T-shirts and jean jackets. Music at our school varies from the quick, punk sounds of the Dead Kennedys, Fear, and Minor Threat (R.I.P.), to the rap sounds of Run D.M.C., the Fat Boys, and L.L. Cool, to the synthesizer sounds of Kraftwerk, Depeche Mode, and Ministry, including everything in between.

Disagreements are common at Monte Vista when the topic turns to music. After a dance you will always hear someone complaining. "They played too much rap!" complains a punk enthusiast. "I hate these all New Wave dances!" comments a heavy metal lover. Well, everyone can't be pleased, but one thing is for sure, as long as Monte Vista is a high school, and teenagers are teenagers, musical tastes will clash.

OPINION OF A SOPHOMORE BY A FRESHMAN

On the planet earth there are many forms of life. The highest of these is the human race. With possibly just one exception. The exception is the high school sophomore.

At age 15 or 16 a teenager's maturity and intelligence take an extended year-long vacation. People avoid sophomores, giving them a wide berth when they are forced to come into any contact with anyone.

Take a typical sophomore: her hair is either a disaster or so covered with hairspray that it smells like a beauty parlor. A sophomore's I.Q. hovers at room temperature, which means that in the winter, they must wear warm clothes to keep from turning into a babbling idiots. When asked a question by a teacher, a typical sophomore's response is "Huh?" or "Sorry (yawn) I was asleep."

We can't blame the Sophomore blight on ourselves, the poor student's parents, or society, because the qualities that make a Sophomore unfortunately have been ingrained in each and every one of us. What a shame, who's to blame?

AN OUTRAGED SOPHOMORE TALKS ABOUT "CURFEWS".

I thought I was king. It was a Friday. Having just gotten my license two days earlier, I was ready for a night on the town. My parents had already given me permission to use the family "limo" (stationwagon). I could just picture it now, my girlfriend and I alone, cruising around Danville in the family wagon until all hours of the night.

I called up my new girlfriend of one week to tell her I had the car, and to be ready to paint the town red. She was ready and willing, but warned me that she would have to be home by twelve. "No prob baby," I said. So very cool. "I'll pick you up at eight, okay?", I added. She thought I was hot.

Hours later I walked toward the garage, keys in hand, ready to leave. "Be home by eleven," I heard. "What?!" I asked. "Be home by eleven," I heard again, a sentence which ripped my eardrums apart. So uncool.

What a disasterous night. My brand-new girlfriend broke up with me, and I got a ticket while racing home at eleven. Now, as a licenseless Sophomore, I can say (yell), "I hate curfews!" Cold.

THE THIRD TIME'S A CHARM

For every Sophomore, "the big day" is maybe the single most important day of their Sophomore year. "The big day" to which I refer of course is the day a Sophomore gets his or her license. In my case the big day happened three times.

Attempt number one. The appointment was set. I'll never forget sitting at the driver's seat of my mom's Gremlin. The morning was a clear one, not a cloud in sight. The birds were singing and my heart was pounding. As the "Grim Reaper" (the judge), entered my vehicle, I felt my heart skip a beat. I was a mess. We started on our course, passing The Sizzler, (our family's favorite restaurant), and the Walnut Creek Gemco. I was sure if I passed the test my mom would take me there for a shopping spree. I knew it wasn't meant to be when I ran the red light and almost hit the bus at the bus stop.

Attempt number two. This time I wasn't concentrating on our family's favorite restaurant or a shopping spree. I was concerned about getting my license on attempt number two. This time I was flawless until the examiner's last command. "Just turn into the driveway and we're finished," he said. I turned just like he said, but into the wrong driveway. I'll never forget entering the exit and seeing a yellow arrow painted on the street pointing directly at me, along with a motorcycle policeman.

Attempt number three. The third time was a charm. This time. Fearing that the Gremlin was possessed, I took my dad's Dodge Dart. I darted around the course in perfect fashion. Today, the widest smile of my life can be seen on the front of my license. Well, at least I did finally get it!

What is a freshman?

A SOPHOMORE'S VIEW . . .

Freshman just don't belong at our school. They just don't do normal (Sophomore type) things. My friends and I have come up with a Freshman thesis. The average Freshman lacks in 5 main areas:

1. Height.
2. Lifestyle.
3. Clothes.
4. Weekend Endeavors.
5. I.Q.

The average Freshman stands approximately 4'11" (and that's pushin' it). The average Sophomore stands a towering 4'11½".

The average Freshman is dropped off by mom in the Wood Paneled Country Squire Stationwagon. At the other end of the spectrum, the Sophomore student is dropped off by dad in the Lincoln Towncar (company owned).

The average Freshman has so many clothes that he/she has an outfit for every day of the month. How spoiled! A Sophomore has to wear the same outfit twice each month.

A Freshman stays at home and watches the Playboy channel when parents go out to dinner at Denny's. Watta bore! They could be out like a Sophomore, playing hide-n-seek in the Crow Canyon Cinemas parking lot.

The average Freshman I.Q. is about the same as a lampshade, while the average Sophomore I.Q. nears the gerbil level.

There is substantial evidence that proves the Sophomore hypothesis. Freshman should be admitted to Monte Vista as Sophomores. But what does that make us?

FRESHMEN HEIGHT

HOW THEY SIZE UP

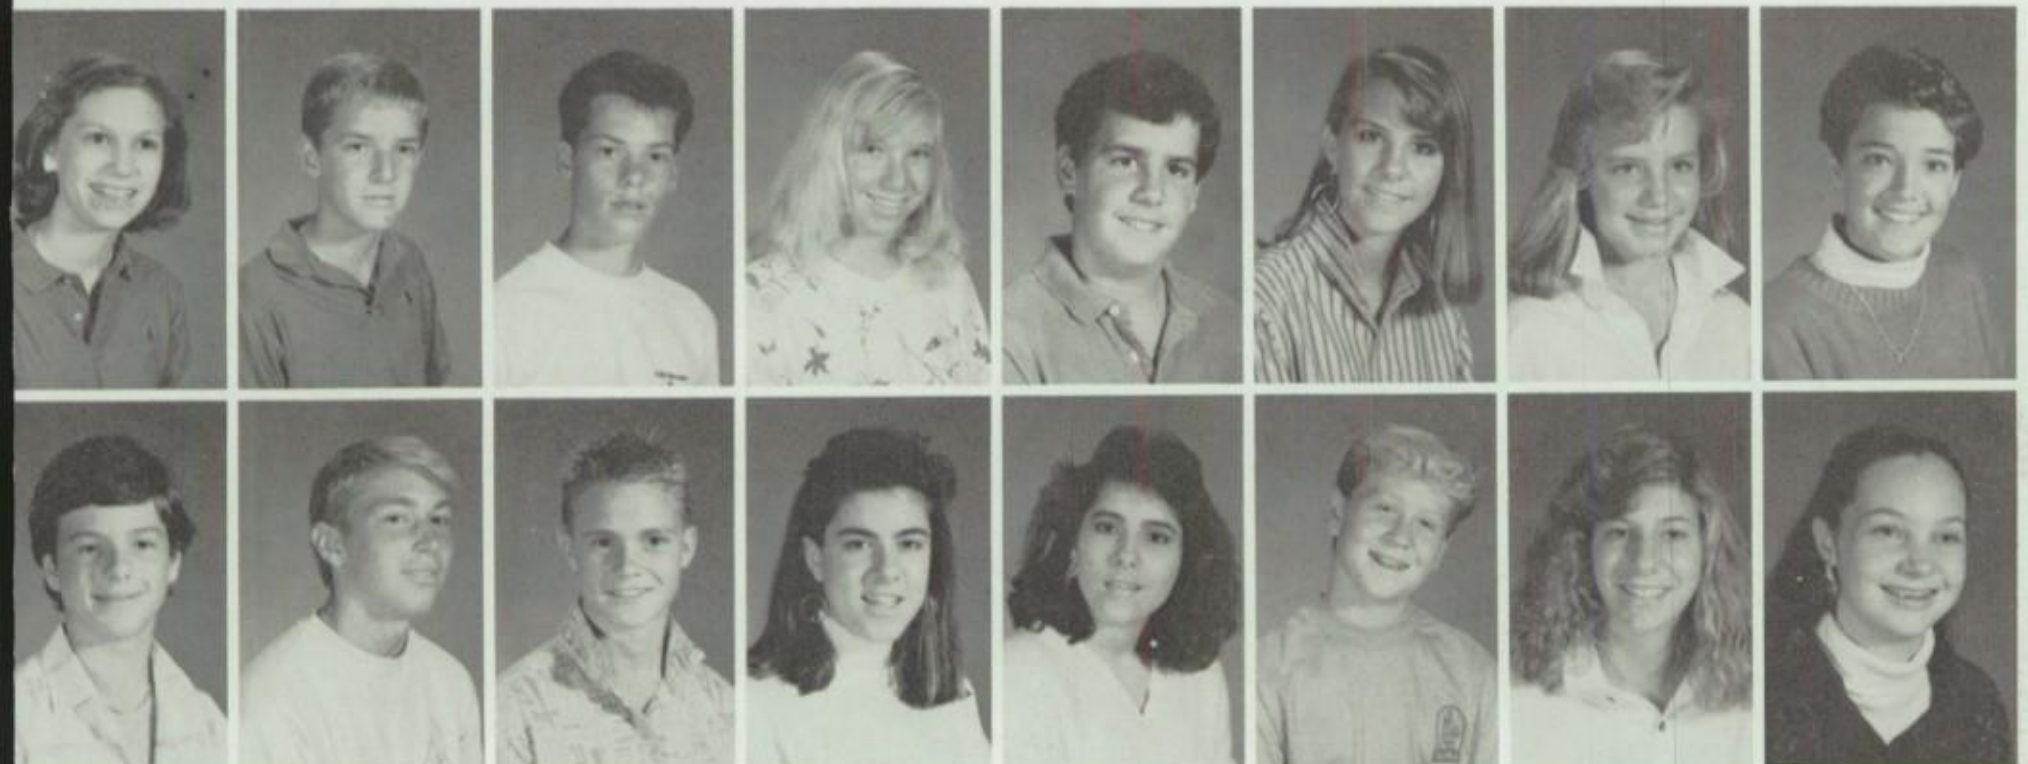

I've always thought the term "dinky" was somewhat overused until I looked into the root. Basically if you're a freshmen you are also a dinky. No matter what your true height is. So it seems reasonable to try and find out if the freshmen or "dinkies" are really just that dinky. A poll was taken and the following facts were found. The tallest freshmen polled is 6'2", although no one has ever seen one that tall. The smallest one is 2'5" but he hasn't been found either. And those freshmen who are about 5'5" are right in the middle.

A FRESHMAN VIEW

"A Portrait Of A Senior"

Up from the depths of the senior benches I hear the senior battle cry, "Freshman?" Summoning as much maturity and confidence as possible, I utter my one saving word, "No, Sophomore". Even though this is an out and out lie it can be my only saving grace when faced with 3 or 4 large hulking seniors! I always thought the seniors would be like wisemen, wise and very mature, but in my short stay here I realize that a senior is just here to have as much fun as possible in the last year of high school. Now, why else would seniors 'trash can' people, have senior prank night, or flash their horseshoes to the whole varsity football team? So, I conclude the only portrait of a senior should be that of an overgrown freshmen!—Nicole Sabatino Freshman

A NEW VIEW

"Monte Vista Is A Great School"

Considering I just moved here and didn't know one single person when I got here, my view is that Monte Vista is an okay school so far.

Most people are really nice, but us freshmen still get pushed around and called names like "little freshmen" and "dinkies" by the upper classmen. But that's okay because my friends and I make it fun anyway. Sure, we act pretty stupid sometimes-but, hey, we are the little freshmen. And I guess the older kids expect us to act dumb.

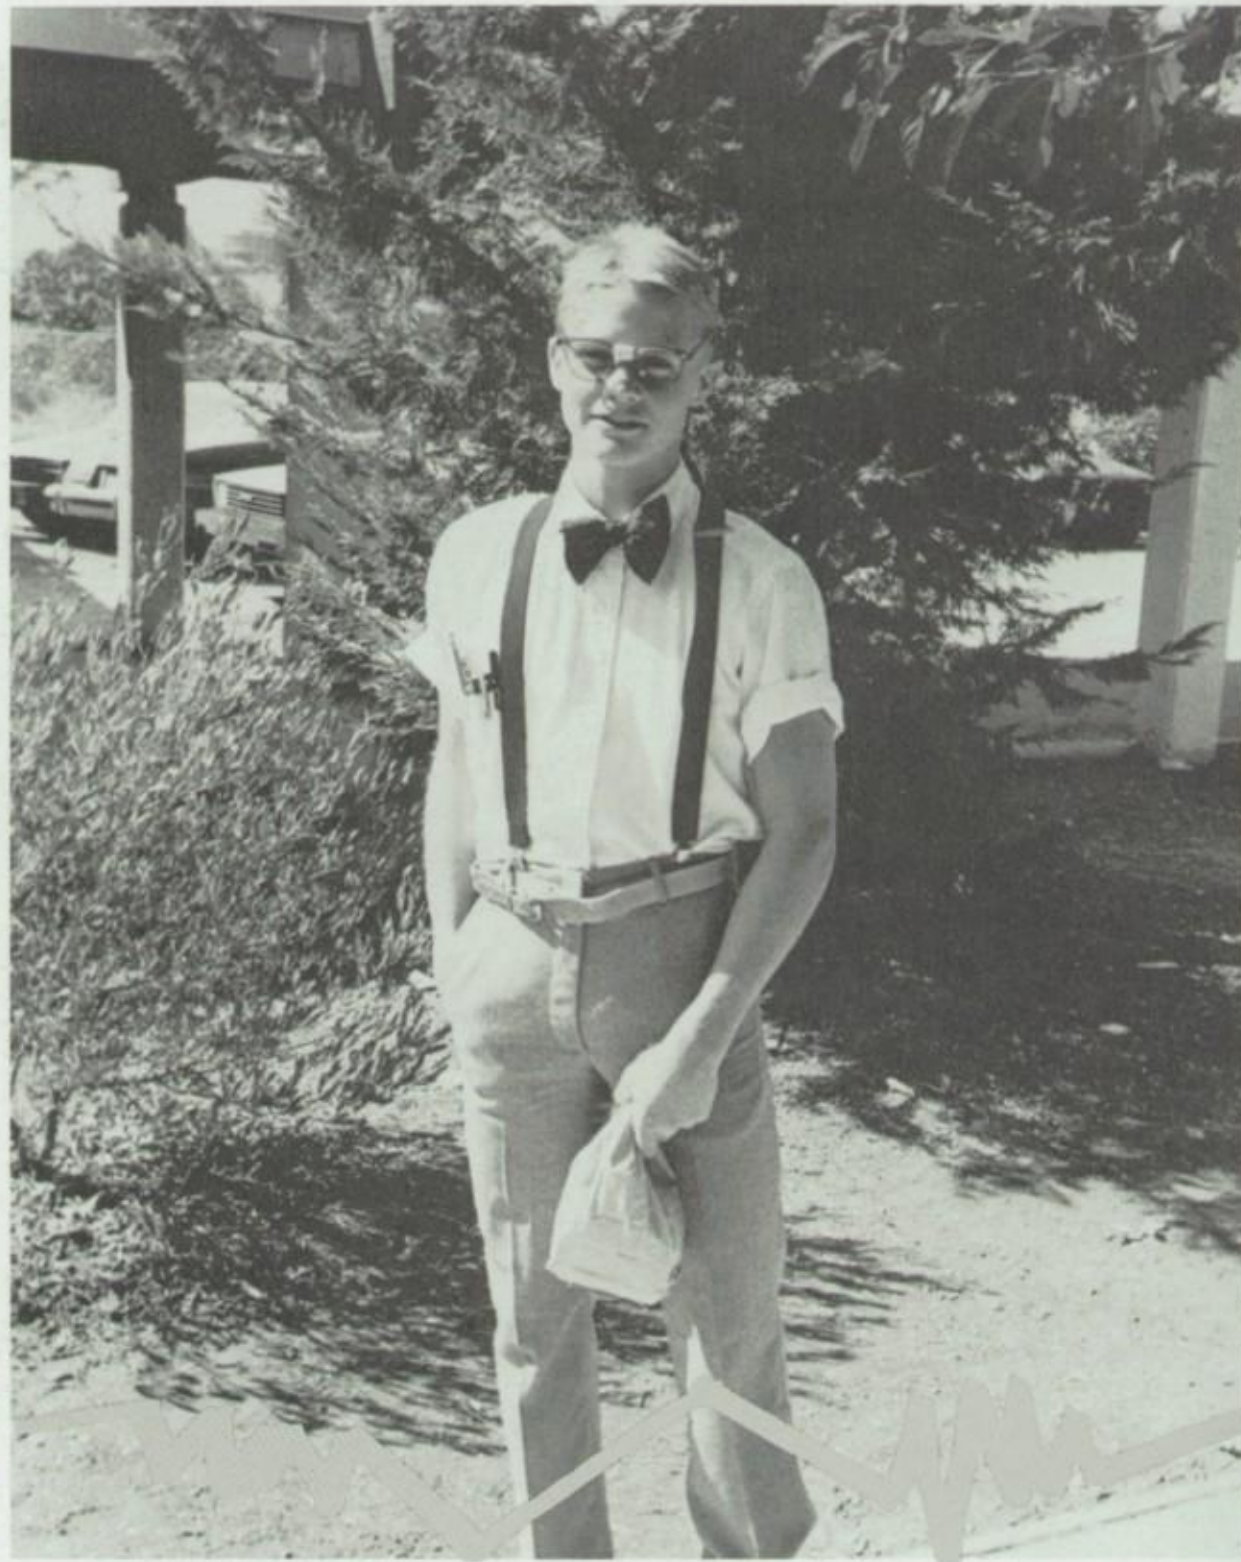

But Monte Vista is really cool and some things I really like about it. You can leave with permission which is great since I'm so used to being stuck in junior high school. You also don't have to have a hall pass just to go to your locker.

Even though I haven't been here very long, I can already see what a great school Monte Vista is.—Joanna Medwick

FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

The typical freshmen stance as performed by Deanna Woods and Chris Prigmore.

As I get out of the car I think wow look at all the people! Everyone's so much bigger than me.

Okay, where's my locker? Here it is! Uh oh, top locker! Uh, oh, it doesn't want to open. What am I going to do? Okay, try to act casual. I'll try it again It still won't open. Am I at the right locker? Yes. Wait, am I at the right school-oh, of course I am. Okay turn the dial, take a deep breath and try it again. Okay, fine, so my locker's in a bad mood. I'll live. (I hope.)

Oh no! I'd better get going or I'm going to be late. What's my first class? Oh yeah, biology, I know where that is.

Okay, so I've found my class by some miracle But now what? I don't know anyone in this class so where am I supposed to sit? I guess a corner would be the best place. Oh good he's calling roll, I hope he doesn't call my full name-it's so awful-too late, "Here." Now we have a seating chart, well at least I'll meet someone-anyone! I can't believe we have homework on the first day of high school! This year is starting off hard already!

Alright, I've made it through the morning. Now, it's time for brunch? What's that? Oh yeah- I knew that. Now I'd better go find my friends and see how they did. Too bad I can't see, everyone must be at least three feet taller than me. Oh, look there's someone selling rally tickets. I have enough money . . . I hope.

I'm so happy, I made it through my first day of high school-I'm so excited I could scream. But I won't because some juniors over there are looking at me funny.

LUNCH TIME

On the first day of school, the freshmen were thoroughly mystified. Disoriented by their new surroundings, the class of 1990 searched for the answers to the questions which have plagued each Freshman class at Monte Vista: "How am I supposed to reach my top locker? Why do I have to take Basic Concepts?", and, most importantly, "Where am I supposed to eat lunch?"

The 1986-1987 school year was the year when Freshmen no longer had to worry about the need for a place to nourish themselves. Yes, the answer was parked right next to the curb in front of the school- THE ICE CREAM MAN! Campus seemed to be virtually devoid of all Freshmen at lunch. Instead they chose to congregate in a place reminiscent of their childhood years. Casting aside jelly sandwiches and Cran-Apple juice boxes, they opted for multi-colored popsicles and chocolate ice cream bars.

Moving away from juvenile associations with ice cream vendors, the Class of 1990 will no doubt find other lunchtime activities to fill the gap between 5th and 6th periods. Some will begin to drive, giving them the option of an off-campus lunch, while others will find other more exciting, stimulating pastimes. As the next Freshman class embarks upon the MV campus, lunch may become a worry of the past, opening the way for light to be shed on other serious problems facing the Freshmen . . . "How am I going to get my parents to drive me and my date to the Homecoming Dance?"

A FRESHMAN FRIDAY NIGHT

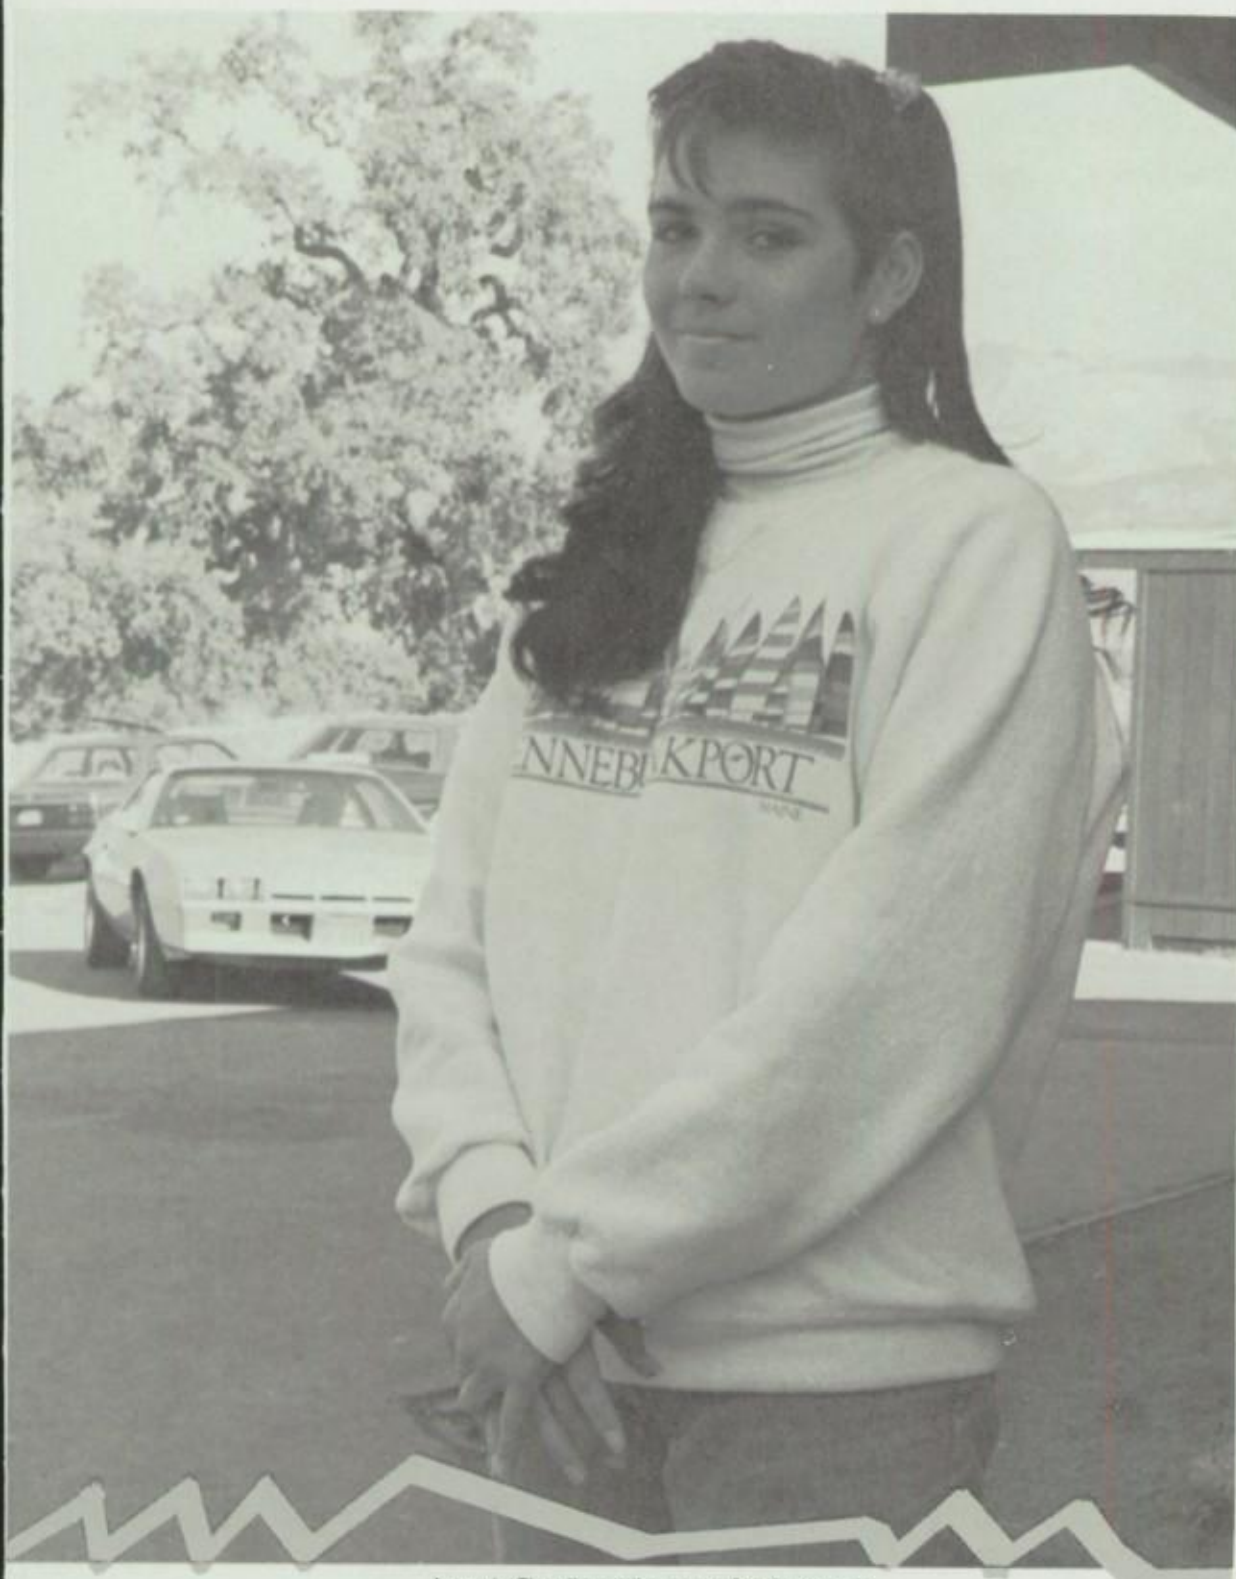

A sort of electricity runs through the crowded bleachers, at the rally, as the classes compete to show who is most spirited. And as that magic word "Friday" roles off my tongue, I think of rally, football game, dance. What more could one want?

Friday night, as I'm standing in line for my ticket, I look at what is going on. The minute we are in the gate my parents rush to grab seats on the bleachers with the other faithful parents. My eye then strays to the many people who look vaguely familiar. Then I realize that they must be upper classmen since they're the only ones who actually watch the game.

Then I rush to the track where I find most of my fellow freshmen huddling in a group and settling down for a great social hour.

As the game draws to a close the universal question again plagues the freshmen scene—What are we going to do? We decide to go to the dance. As soon as I arrive my first thought is; "This has got to be a mistake." The D.J. is blasting out something that resembles "golden oldies" while five people dance and everyone else stands or sits.

Then I hear a rumor that there is a big party in Blackhawk. But there can be some risk going to parties. You can be having fun and suddenly the parents come home, or, even worse than that the police break it up. Sure I want to be in pictures but not police pictures! Ah, Friday nights: To know them is to love them.—Nicole Sabatino

THE CHANGING FRESHMEN TRENDS

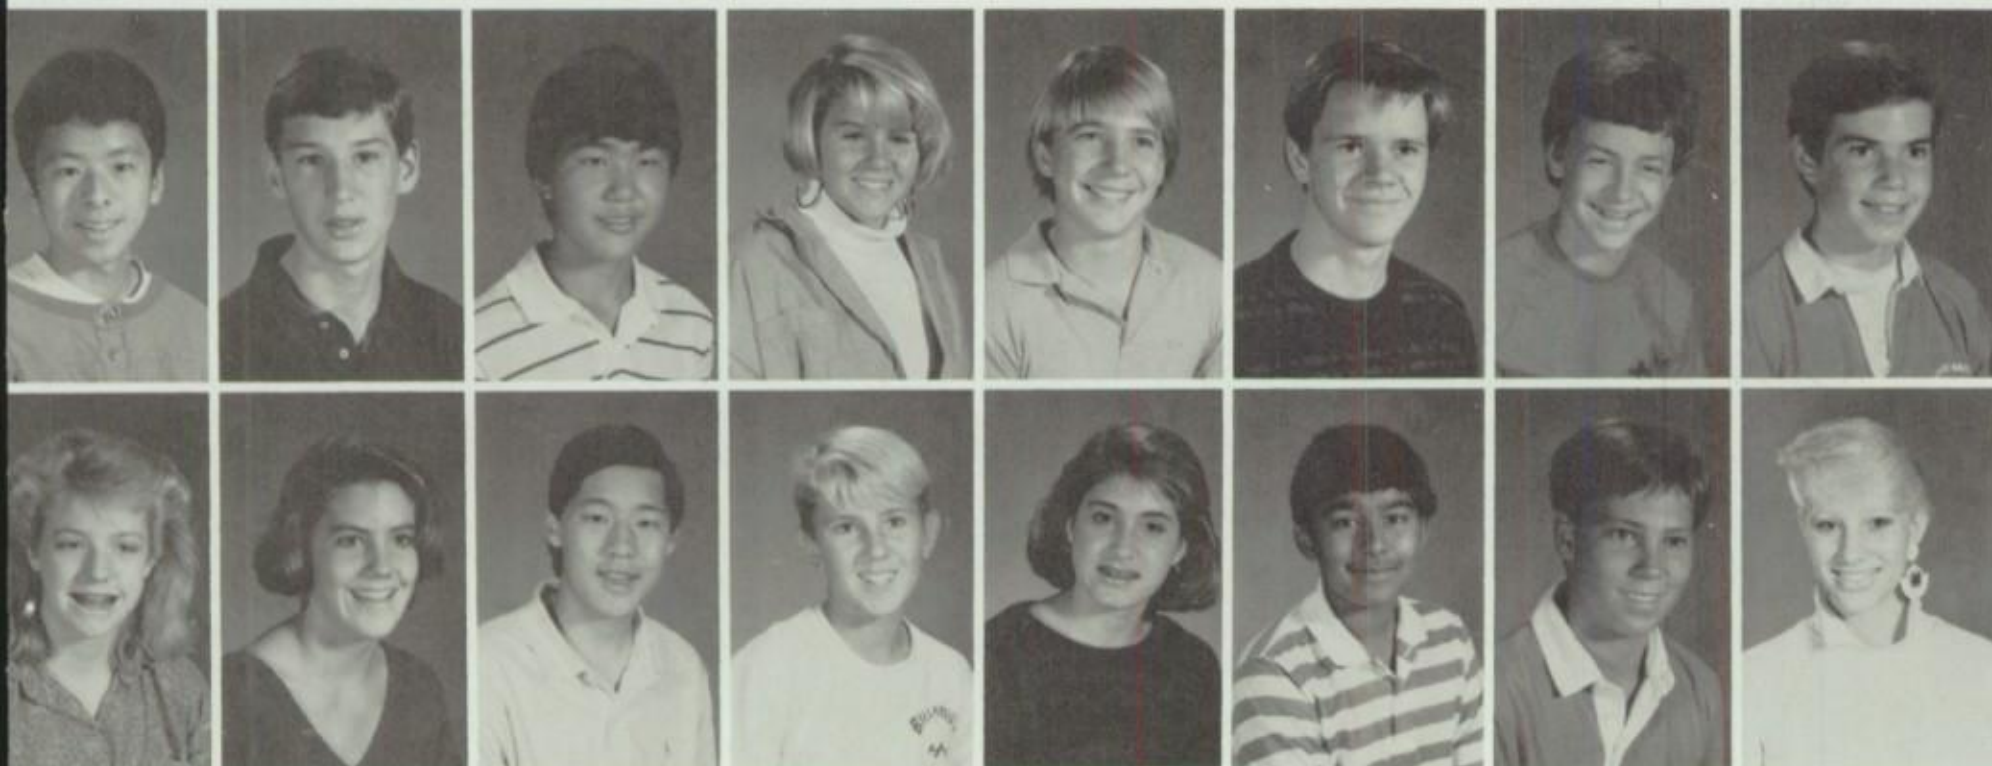

When it comes to appearance everyone is self conscious especially our little B-bops, the freshman. Clothes, haircuts and even bizarre personalities show just how trendy a freshman can be. But, we all understand!! Coming into a new school when you're the butt of most jokes, a person tends to feel a bit on display.

A couple of years ago it was neon colors and pink lace, every girls dream was to resemble the seductive queen of smut, Madonna. And while girls were baring their navals what were the boys doing? Yep, you guessed it, the boys were trying to match their clothes. No clue, no inclination, orange shorts and purple t-shirts, sure it goes why not?!

Today things have sure changed! The Freshmen are beginning to independently choose clothing that is socially acceptable. The array of colors actually looks pleasing, and they miraculously arrived from a normal rainbow spectrum. The boys have learned their colors and are dressing for success! While the girls are impressed, they too, are dressing with style. We're all proud of you freshmen you've come a long way!

THE NOT SO DISTANT FUTURE

The road ahead seems long, all things considered. When freshmen look ahead the farthest they can see sometimes is their driver's license or the junior prom. But there is more, much more.

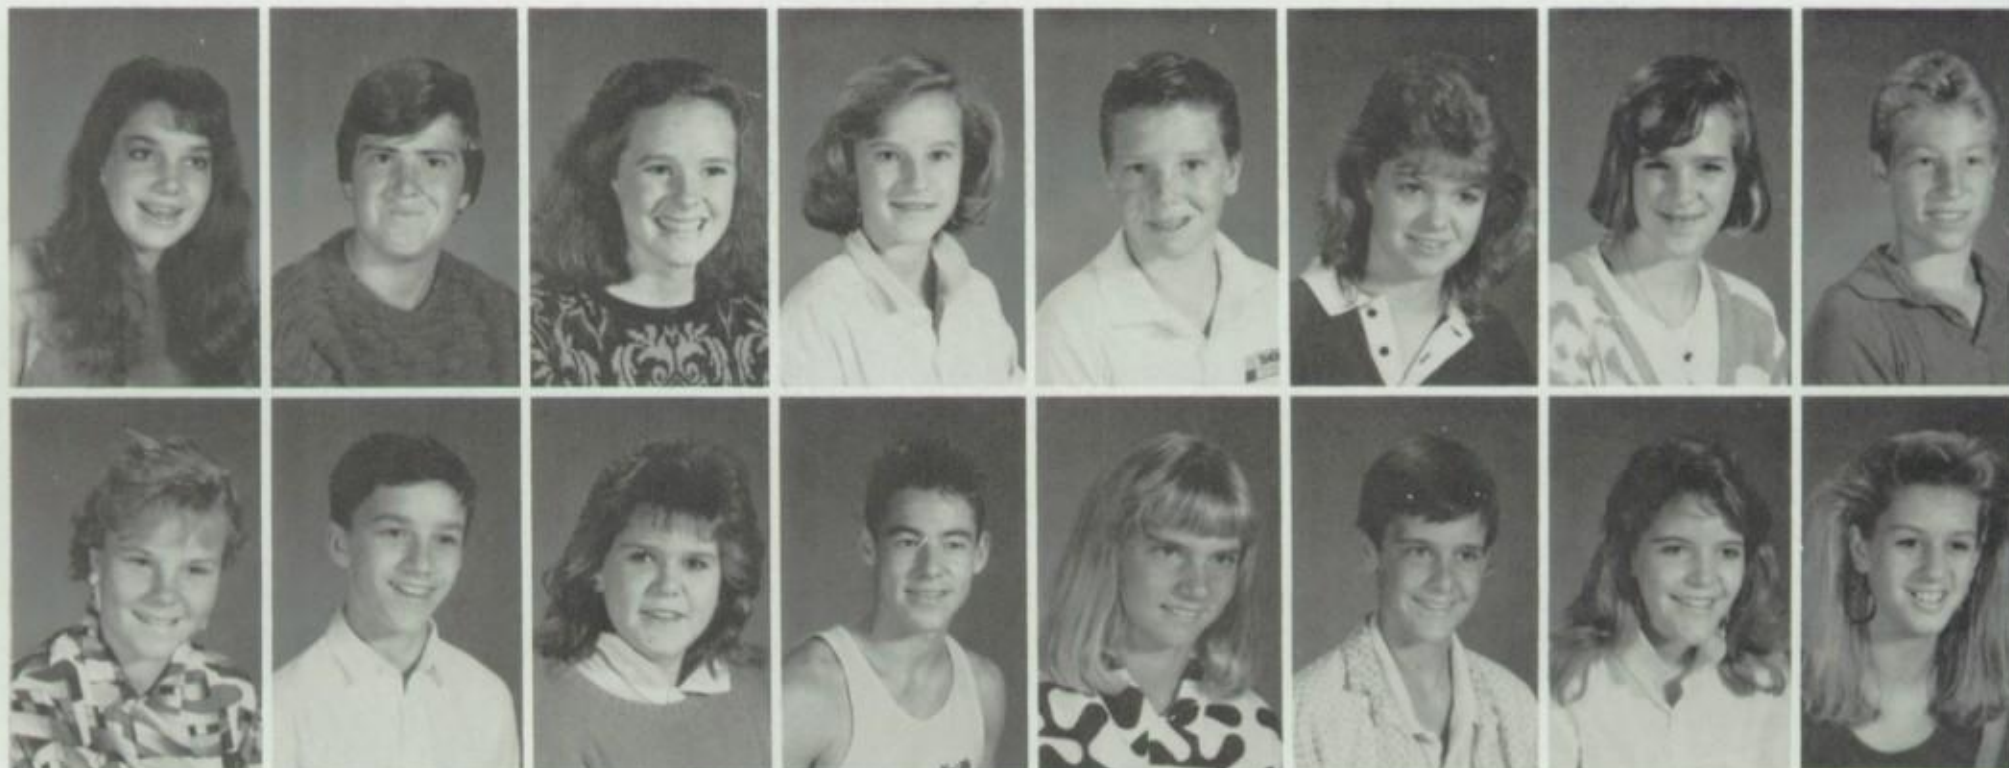

First there's a thing called graduation. An event in which everyone puts on a silly outfit with a smock like gown and a square hat with a tassel. Then they walk up get a piece of paper and throw their hats in the air. For some freshmen this event seems a lifetime away, but in reality it's just around the corner. And that can be very scary for some. Graduation means moving on, leaving your friends and, the all too familiar or unfamiliar, getting a job.

But some students are ambitious and want to go to college. This is sort of like an extension of high school only this time different people, the classes are a little tougher and Mom and Dad no longer keep you on a short leash.

The future can be somewhat ominous, holding many new and exciting things which can be frightening to those unfamiliar with them. But, Freshmen, relax you've still got a while to wait.

HOME COMING

As I skeptically look around at all the perspective dates I try to decide . . . which is the most intriguing?

As a freshmen there are just a few things that we share with the upperclassmen, one of which is homecoming.

The trickiest thing is to avoid having Mom or Dad drive us on our date. The best solution is to have an older friend who drives to double date with. Because whose date wants to jump on a Honda scooter in the cold night air? If you are fortunate enough to have this advantage the rest is easy . . . sort of.

Freshmen have it a little bit tougher because of this non-driving disadvantage. That means deciding early who will be the best girl for you. Once you've picked out this "perfect match", You need to stop your stammering, get up your courage, and ask her.

"Um . . . Stacey, I have something to ask you."

"Yeah Matt?"

"Do you have a pen?"

"Uh sure?"

"Because, well, I wanted to get your phone number . . . to ask you for a date . . . a homecoming date."

"Wow! I'd love to."

If all goes well you won't spill anything on your date and you'll have more to talk about than the weather.

Even though freshmen make up 75% of the couples at the dance, you'll still have fun feeling like you're one of the older kids.

VARSITY SOFTBALL

This year's Varsity Softball team got off to a great start. In the pre-season opener, the Mustangs crushed Berene Christian 24-1. Starting pitcher Karyn McIntyre went four innings with only one hit. Relief pitcher Stacy Young finished the game allowing only one run in the sixth inning. Karyn also helped out in the hitting area by nailing two back to back home runs. This victory gave the girls incentive to continue the winning throughout the season.

Coach Ladouceur's experience in coaching made the switch from football to softball an easy one. His sense of humor combined with constant encouragement and desire to win provided a very fun and successful season.

*The Future Is So

With only six returning players: senior Micky Paris, juniors Stacy Young, Karyn McIntyre, Leeann Couch, and Sami Kealy, and sophomore Deanna Arvizu; their experience played an important role in helping the newer players adapt to the success of the Mustangs.

J.V. SOFTBALL

Thanks to coach J.P. Jones, this year's Monte Vista Junior Varsity Softball team was led to another winning season.

Starting out with a lot of new talent this year really made the team better. With such incoming Freshmen as Maryanne Makely at second base and Molly Mc Glynn at first base, the team really shaped up.

Yet the returning players also contributed a lot to the team. With Julie Trent in center field, Nina Corelius at third base, and Michelle Neill pitching, they had some tremendous defensive plays.

Offensively, Chantelle Cohen and Kelly Jager were the ones to watch. Chawny "King Kong" Cohen wounded one pitcher and hit at least five

BOYS TENNIS

The Boys Tennis Team demonstrated their strength and talent in a pre-season win over Clovis West 5-3. This success was typical and it was expected to carry the team to another E.B.A.L. Championship season. Other future goals included sending a singles player and doubles team to N.C.S. and developing team unity and mutual support during competition.

"We have a predominantly well seasoned Junior and Senior team this year," said Coach Gail Roll. Some of the strongest players are Alex and Gavin Havrilenko at first and sec-

Despite the many seniors who will graduate on the team, coaches Harry Flanigan and Gail Roll were optimistic for future seasons.

They are expecting a strong team in the future due to the fact of the developing sophomores and juniors.

The Swimming and Diving team for 1987 did their best. At the beginning of the season the coaches were very optimistic about the teams chances for a playoff spot in the E.B.A.L. The turnout of kids was so great that these feelings drowned.

Coached by Mrs. Bagget and first year coaches Bob Snodgrass and Sheila Elworthy, the team showed much improvement from the prior years. The teams spirit and enthusiasm pushed individual teammates to many victories.

A 6-1 record was good for a second place in the E.B.A.L. and capped a season of fine performances by the young grapplers. A win over El Cerrito in pre-season ran their over-all record to 7-1.

Standout performers include sophomore Geoff Hayden 20-0 and Joe Whitehead 19-1. Other top players include senior Chris Garvin; sophomores Troy Teixeira, Doug Evans, Dan Longnecker; and freshmen Rob Kone, Ken Kincaid, Rob Devany, Ken Bidinger, Jason

The hard work and dedication demonstrated by these young men was reflected in their performances and will pave the way for their continued success of the varsity team.

Boys Basketball VARSITY

This years Boys Varsity Basketball Team had a great season. During the pre-season the Mustangs beat San Ramon in the championship game of the Friends of the Family Tournament. They also played in the Big Pacific Tournament in Hawaii but they lost in the championship round.

Second year coach Bob Gallo's successful season was due to his new strategy. Being the first team ever to use three forwards: D.J. (Defenses Jewel) Volko, Rick Lineweaver, and Rich Rask, the Stangs pushed their way up to the top. Gary Barthold and Stewart Hansen also were assets to the team.

Leading scorer Kristian Hansen, leading rebounder John Steineke, and point guard Chad Jackson were a few of the players who helped Monte Vista to a great season. A Winning Season At Last

Boys Varsity Soccer

*"You did everything right
BUT . . ." says Coach
Figueroa*

This year's Boys Varsity Soccer team had high aspirations. Coach Figueroa said he was looking forward to a promising season. He says "We have come a long way. This is the year we surprised the E.B.A.L."

The past 12 seasons (all of which were losing) have not diminished the hopes of the Mustangs. The returning seniors wanted to graduate with a good season and with this in mind fought to the last game.

This year the team was led by Tony White, Don Wheeler, Corby Hughes, Zach Talor, Dave Bauer, and Chris Haggan. With this strong group, the team was able to prove to the E.B.A.L. and, most importantly to themselves, that Monte Vista is a soccer power.

The Boys Junior Varsity Soccer team is off to a great season. Their first E.B.A.L. match against Dublin ended in a crushing victory. Even goalie Jeff Quick scored.

The try-outs that began in early November gave the two new coaches a real challenge. They looked for skills such as aggressiveness, ball control, speed, and other basic soccer skills. Although each player had great talents, the task of pulling them all together to make a great team took the coaches several weeks. With only a few returning players, most of the team was made up of freshman.

Led by goalie Jeff Quick, Shawn Seyk, and Kevin Wright, the J.V. team had an excellent chance of controlling the E.B.A.L. this year.

GIRLS VARSITY SOCCER

This year's Girls Varsity Soccer Team had their best season ever. They opened the season with a victory over Cal High and from that point on things only got better. The highlight of the season was their win over cross-town rival San Ramon. The 2-1 victory was the first time the girls had ever beat San Ramon. Third year coach Sue Lewis said, "a win over them is better than any other team". Another highlight of the season was when the girls shut out Foothill (the number one team at the time) 1-0. The season ended with another victory over Dublin.

(forward) and Micky Paris (goalie) were two seniors who led the team. The midfield was led by senior Megan Voos, and juniors Sami Kealy and Carolyn Spencer. Junior Marianne Winter took on the difficult job of becoming sweeper this year. And with the help of sophomore Carrie Koeper the opposing team found it very difficult to penetrate the defense.

The girls ended their season with their best record ever. They can no longer be regarded as the "cellar dwellers" of the league. Although the team is losing four key senior players there are four freshmen who will become an asset to the team. The team will continue to grow and get better for the next few years.

Coach Sue Lewis gives Lisa Cote advice.

The Girls Junior Varsity Soccer Team did not win as many games as they would have liked to this year. Although their spirits never dropped throughout the season.

First year coach Mrs. Sbarbaro with the help of her husband Mr. Sbarbaro met the challenge of pulling the talents of all the girls together. Their experience in coaching Al Caf-fodio Soccer gave them an extra edge.

The coaches claimed that the team was filled with great players that were an asset to the team. Goalie Shannon Powell, Kelly Lewis, Susan Fritz, Kimi Bryce, and Susan Huddleston were just a few of the outstanding players.

The Mustangs are trying to build a girls soccer program that will be more successful and the J.V. team will play a big role in their future success.

GIRLS BASKETBALL VARSITY

Dribbling up and down the court, the Girls Varsity Basketball team had a very good chance of going for it all in the EBAL this year. With their great preseason start the girls were anticipating a great season. With returning players of Jrs. Leeann Couch and Karen McIntyre, and Srs. Jill Wilson and Moreen Highfield and transfer student, Sr. Lora Lund, the team hoped to continue with their wonderful winning record.

Second year Coach Richard Grotegut, and first year assistant coach Linda Falk had a challenge facing one of the toughest leagues in California. With such teams as the San Ramon Wolves and the Granada Matadors, the season proved to be one of the toughest in recent years. The combination of good coaches and dedicated players met this challenge and scored a winning season.

Girls Basketball Junior Varsity

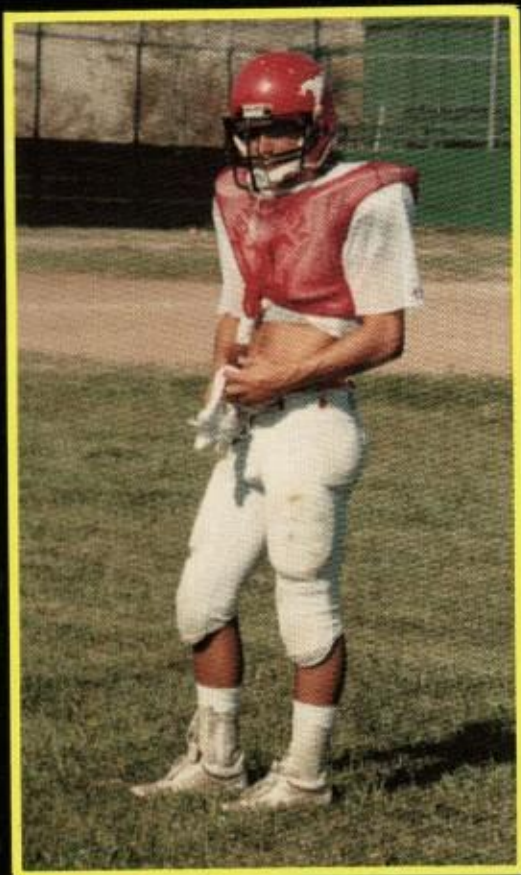

The Girls Junior Varsity Basketball team tried their best this year. For his first year of coaching basketball, Coach Hitomi seemed to take to the sport with ease. Although the team, made up of nine freshmen and two sophomores, was a little shy in experience, Coach Hitomi used his coaching talents to pull the team together.

The preseason was a time for the team to see what they could do. Because most of these games slipped by; 20-19, 39-28, 21-16, the team was very excited about the possibilities of the season yet to come.

To open the season the Stangs played Cal. High. Throughout the game the girls showed spirit, enthusiasm, and an amazing ability to keep their spirits high. These traits continued throughout the season that ended with a big game against Livermore. Although the team did not have as many wins as they would have liked, the experience was one that they all enjoyed.

Showing Great Potential

FRESHMEN FOOTBALL

The Freshman football team this year had two meaningful victories against Dubin and Amador. Furthermore the team showed great promise against San Ramon, but lost. Although the freshman team did not have much experience, they tried to match the skills of the J.V. and Varsity.

The team was lead by receivers Charles Yang, Kyle Intyre and Mike Austin. Lance Hale, quarterback and co-captain, had a very good year with about ten receptions per game. Chris Gunnerson also a co-captain, was one of the hardest hitters and led the team in tackles at linebacker. The freshman team had great potential, and will be an asset to Monte Vista Football in the future.

The Junior Varsity Football Team enjoyed another very productive season. The team was led on offense by Sophomore quarterback Kristian Hansen, running backs Brent Stuenenberg, Chris McKean, and Brian Knadle. The receivers which also made some impressive plays were Chris Wallis, Chris Musseman, and Bill Draper. The offense line was anchored by Mike Daily and Sam Evans.

GIRLS' TENNIS

The Monte Vista Girls Tennis Teams were once again victorious in EBAL by tying cross town rival San Ramon for the championship. Both schools defeated the rest of the EBAL teams. In the first meeting the Mustangs whipped San Ramon 5-2. They were led by the potent singles group of Freshman Julie Radder, Junior Cami Edwards, and Seniors Tricia Broderick and Debbie Edwards. In the second encounter, S.R. prevailed 4-3.

In practice matches M.V. defeated Northgate, the DVAL champion, Carondolet, the GBAL champions, Miramonte, the FAL champions, and Mission San Jose, the MVAL champions.

Side-Out— VARSITY VOLLEYBALL

This years Girls Varsity Volleyball Team had a rough time. Coach Hitomi and the six returning players thought that they had a spot in the playoffs this year, but the competition in league play was greater than last year. Despite a galant effort the Mustangs were just shy of that playoff spot. They ended the season in fifth place with a 6-8 record.

The six returning players were co-captains Jill Wilson and Stacy Young, Leean Couch, Karyn McIntyre, Kazumi Ohira, and Amy Allen.

This year the stangs had excellent play by Senior transfer Lora Lund, Junior Jodi Beeson, and both of the captains. The rest of the Varsity squad included: Senior Jodi Wilkie; juniors Stephanie Ogawa, Wendy Hartman, and Sami Kealy; and Sophomore Amy Beth Ogden.

The Mustangs will once again have a strong team next year. With only four players leaving they will have a team with much experience. Good luck Mustangs.

With only four returning players, and the help of Amy Beth Ogden and Stephanie Ogawa, who moved up to Varsity during the season, the 1986 Girls J.V. volleyball team consisted of incoming freshmen and upperclassmen new to the sport.

Coached by Richard Grotegut, also new to the sport, the team had an excellent year despite their inexperience. Led by co-captains Deanna Arvizu and Amy Arnett, the team rallied together to win 8 out of their 14 games. This team has won more games than any other J.V. Volleyball team in 7 years.

Strong hitting and consistant serving were the result of the teams drive. The highlight of the season was when the team beat Granada.

This years team was noted for its support and spirit for each other and the Varsity Team.

To The Mustangs Comes . . . VICTORY

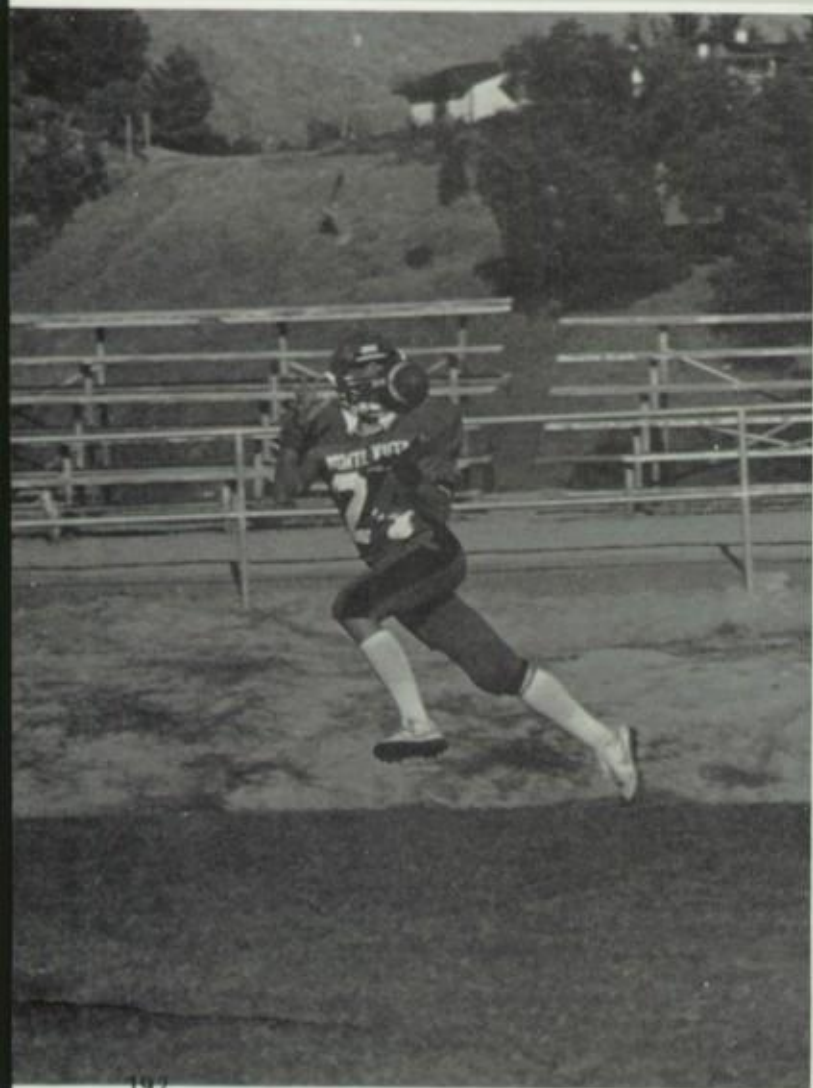

There are many reason why students get involved in Athletics.
Some play for the glory.
Some play for the love of contact.
Some play for the love of sportsmanship.
Some play for their girlfriends or boyfriends.
Some play for their parents.
Some play for the lack of something better to do.

But some sure do play!
Any great athlete realizes that wanting to win is the most important aspect of any athletic contest.
That is what pushes a champion to give of themselves 100 percent of their heart, body, and soul.
The Athlete realizes (from the win or the loss) the masses shall determine how well they play the game.

Individual reasons for playing sports are apparent and must be respected by peers and fans.
But that is where individuality ends and the essence of a Champion begins.

To be a true Mustang every thought should be geared toward the good of the team.
When this phenomenon takes place after the final gun has sounded, after the final points have been totaled, then . . .
You will be Mustang
You will be a Champion.

Simply stated:
THE STRENGTH OF THE HERD IS THE MUSTANG.
THE STRENGTH OF THE MUSTANG IS THE HERD.

S.F. Chronicle features:

THE EAST BAY'S BIGGEST GAME

The crowd was noisy enough Friday morning in the gymnasium at San Ramon Valley High School to make the rafters quiver like plucked strings. But mere noise wasn't enough.

You can get by with noise if you are playing Dublin or Livermore or some other of the Contra Costa County high schools. But this was Monte Vista High School they were playing tonight.

Hated Monte Vista. Better known as Monkey Hill, despised by San Ramon as the crosstown home of rich snobs and spoiled brats who have a cheer that goes, "We Have Money, How About You?"

It was Monte Vista vandals who strung the toilet paper from the trees in the quad and spray-painted taunts on buildings in spite of beefed-up stay on campus overnight to help protect it.

Not that San Ramon's students were themselves all that innocent. Crankcase oil was poured onto the bleachers where Monte Vista rumps would sit during the game, just to name one dirty trick that worked.

No, noise wasn't enough. Not when the Monte Vista Mustangs were the league's football powerhouse this year, ranked second in the entire East Bay to San Ramon's fourth.

Monte Vista was coming into the night's game with a 9-0 record, its best ever, enough to qualify for a berth in the North Coast Section 3A playoffs. They are so strong they even beat bluecollar Clayton Valley for the first time in history.

So San Ramon needed a deeper inspiration than just noise. And who better than Hans De Lonnoy, the bearded basketball coach and master motivator, to give it?

The coach walked slowly to the end of the basketball court, every eye on him. He took the microphone to remind the kids of all the sports in which the San Ramon Wolves had kicked Monte Vista Mustang butt the past year. It took awhile.

Then De Lonnoy worked the crowd like a faith healer, building excitement. Finally he cried, "It's time for institutional warfare."

This was the signal for the traditional chant: "Kill Monkey HILL, Kill Monkey Hill, KILL MONKEY HILL!"

Beaming in his kelly green school sweater was San Ramon Principal Jim Henderson, 43. Like his counterpart at Monte Vista, Jerry Grundhoffer, 47, Henderson really gets up for the annual game.

"I say we'll score 25 points. I don't know how much the other side will score."

The rivalry between San Ramon and Monte Vista is one of the keenest in the Bay Area. It almost always decides the championship of the East Bay Athletic League championship.

It wouldn't on Friday because San Ramon's 7-1-1 record wasn't good enough. But a victory might be good enough to put the Wolves in the playoffs, where they might have an unprecedented chance to humble the proud 'Stangs twice in the same season. All things seem possible when De Lonnoy gets you pumped up.

It's true that Monte Vista—which draws students from the country clubs and Blackhawk, the golden ghetto for the nouveau riche—has a lot of rich kids who drive Porsches and other expensive sportscars.

But it doesn't follow that the kids at San Ramon have holes in their Gucci shoes and designer jeans. Both are upper-middle-class communities where you can't buy a home for much less than $250,000. A lot of people keep horses both places and ride them clip-clop down quiet streets.

The fathers take BART into the city, where they run corporations, practice corporate law or otherwise make a lot of money. The well-groomed mothers golf, play tennis and busy themselves with worthy community pursuits.

The children are blond to an unusual degree and have straight, white teeth testifying to fortunes spend on orthodontics. They do well academically; more than 85 percent go onto college. They do well in sports.

"There's very little difference between the two student bodies," said Monte Vista's Grundhoffer, who taught at San Ramon for five years and coached football before moving to Monte Vista.

"These kids know each other quite well," said Henderson of San Ramon. "We share the same feeder school. Monte Vista gets 200 and we get 120."

This is just the problem. Everybody knows everybody and nobody lets anybody forget how the big game turns out in November. The winner gloats and the loser has to live with it. They hear the score chanted or see it on signs held up when the two schools meet in other sports.

And not just the students at both schools. Alumni who graduated 10 and 15 years ago return to yell for the alma mater and party afterward. A crowd of 5000 at one of these games is nothing unusual.

Schon Branum, Monte Vista's 193-pound fullback, has gained more than 1000 yards this season and is the league's leading rusher. He said, "It's the big one. It's gonna be a tough one."

Monte Vista's 205-pound defensive tackle, Chris Geremia, 17, has had to wear the name of turncoat in his family. "Most of my aunts and uncles went to San Ramon. My uncle played there in '74. That's when they dominated."

"When I was a freshman, I didn't know what rivalry meant. But after the freshman game, I saw how intense it was. It's like when two armies meet on the battlefield. There is no love lost. It's probably an intensity I'll never feel again."

Scot Boatright, 17, a Monte Vista center who is 6-2, weighs 225 pounds and has a dark jaw if he doesn't shave close every morning. He said:

"I transferred from Arizona last semester. The first thing I heard was all about San Ramon. It doesn't make any difference what you do all year long as long as we beat San Ramon."

On the battlefield: Mustangs eat up the Wolves

Monte Vista head coach Rob Stockberger, 31, graduated from there in 1973. It was his dream while still at Monte Vista to return and coach the team. He is now in his sixth season, four of which have been crowned with championships.

"We've been successful," he says with a hero's modesty.

How does this squad com-

How does this squad compare with the others that have won titles? "I don't like to compare them, but this is the only team we've had going into final week that has a chance to go undefeated. The others had either preseason or early season losses.

"The two schools have different reasons to get up for this game. "Our team has clinched a playoff spot, but we would have a bitter taste in our mouth coming off a defeat in the last game to our crosstown rival. Plus, we want revenge for last years 14-10 loss." A Matter of Pride

The pretty, long-limbed yell leaders, flag girls and pompon girls felt the same. "This game has a lot of meaning. It's the last time we'll be cheerleaders on the home field and the last time we play San Ramon," said Allison Alter, 17.

"We want to get our pride back," said Leslie Hale, 17.

It was San Ramon head coach Tom Linda's first taste of the rivalry. He guided San Leandro High to two titles in a row and coached the Alameda County high school all stars last year. He jumped to San Ramon because he thought they were, well, more serious about football than in San Leandro.

Linda was understandably a little edgy. He narrowed his eyes and clammed up when a San Francisco newsman dropped by and asked questions Linda thought just might be trying to nose out his game plan for Monte Vista.

Linda made some calls and had the reporter's license plated plates checked out afterward to find out whether he was an agent in the service of the duplicitous 'Stang brain trust. If that's the way the game is played here, he figured he might as well know now.

Not that he didn't have enough to worry about. Who knows why, given the classy gene pool hereabouts, but for some reason the Wolves are undersized this year.

"I didn't know how big the kids were out here. We've been dwarfed by our opponents. We're out-weighted 20- to 30 pounds a man on the line."

He worried about his 175-pound center- normal by San Leandro standards- blocking Goliaths like the 6-foot-5-inch Mustang defensive tackle who tips the scales at a pro-size 250 pounds.

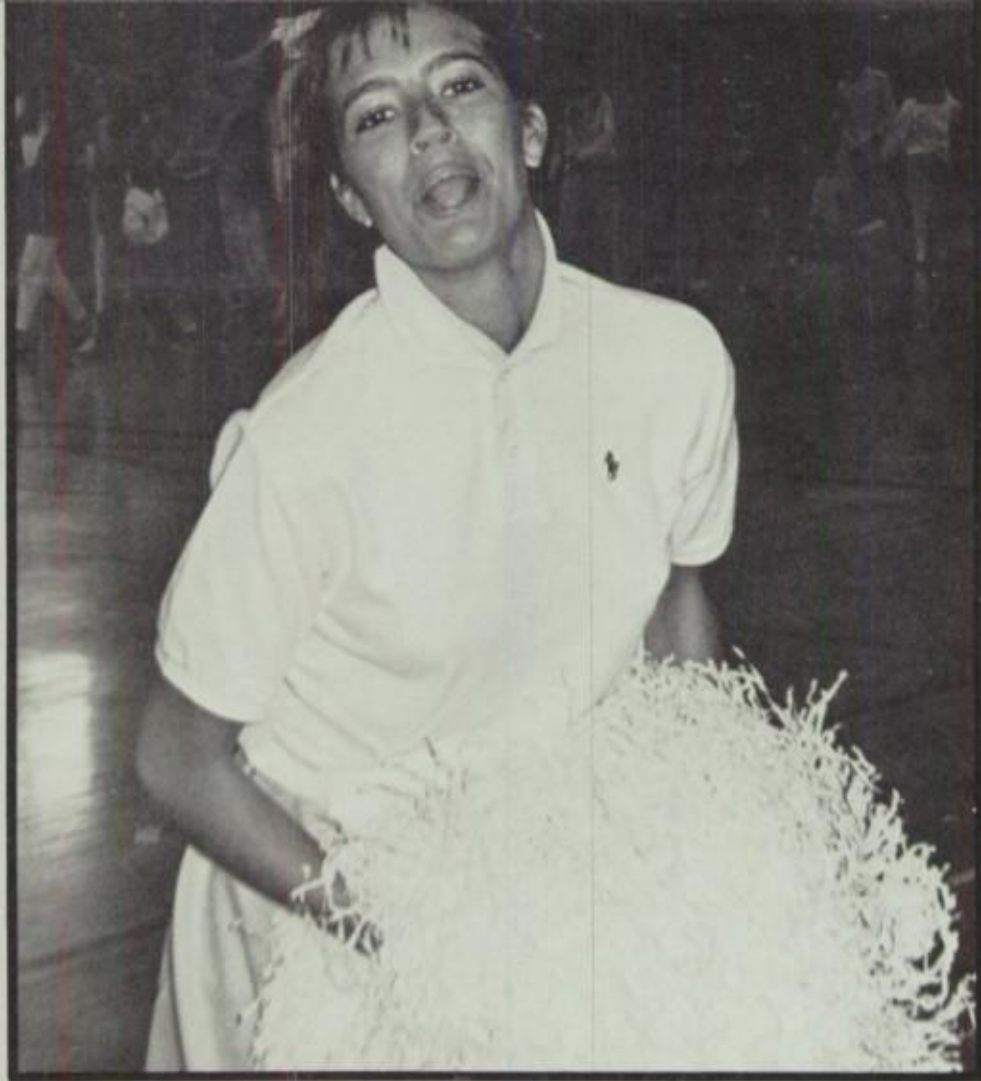

Linda hoped his run-and-shoot offense emphasizing misdirection plays would freeze Monte Vista's shambling giants long enough to let San Ramon's passing game do the trick.

His quick running back, Zane Stoddard 17, considered the question before answering. "I don't know what the score will be, but I think we'll surprise some people."

The adults arrived first Friday night to stake out the best bleacher seats and hang blankets over the rails to keep the draft off. The game is usually played in the rain, but this night was chilly and clear except for a ring of clouds around the moon.

The two teams were shepherded on the field by assistant coaches, the Mustangs in their red and black home uniforms and the Wolves in their traveling yellow uniforms with green numbers. The San Ramon side booed the Monte Vista band.

The game itself was an anticlimax. The 'Stangs scored the second time they got their hands on the ball and went on to demolish San Ramon by a score of 44-0, the worst drubbing in the history of the series.

Most of the Ramon kids lost interest in the game by the half. They gathered in the east end of the stadium where pizza slices went for $1.25 and big signs warned against bringing alcohol in.

The boys talked about girls and the girls talked about boys. The nerds talked about school. "I would have got an A-minus in algebra except I didn't turn in my notes," said one.

It was a rude welcome to the league for Linda. "They're as fine a physical team and as disciplined as any team I've had the opportunity to coach against," Linda said afterward.

He's already planning for next year. Linda got to San Ramon too late to put together a weight-training program or to put his squad through summer camp. That won't be the case next season. Revenge will be sweet.

CLASSIC COMEDY . . .

CURTAIN CALL

"Arsenic and Old Lace" was yet another success for the Drama Club and director Lola Ganse. The humorous play consisted of three acts that kept the large audiences entertained constantly.

The play takes place in Brooklyn in the early 1940's. There are the two innocent and charming Brewster sisters, Aunt Martha and Aunt Abby (Marci Appleton and Jody Kealy). With the help of their nephew Teddy (Britton Adams), they populate their cellar with the bodies of their guests. The two sisters help people who need a place to stay. But, when the two find out that their visitor is "all alone in the world," they make sure that he is never lonely again. When their nephew Mortimer (Stephen Jones) discovers a dead body in the window seat, everything breaks loose. To add to the madness, Jonathan Brewster (Justin McNichols) returns to his childhood home with his unusual German doctor (Rob Kim). A bitterness still exists between the two brothers and poor Dr. Einstein gets caught in the middle of it all. All of this and more adds to the pleasant charm of the play.

Other players are: Peter Crooks, Bob Dailey, Alice Hedstrom, Holly Fitzmyers, Paul Foster, Charles Olson, T.J. Marshman, Lisa Hyman, and student director Kym Martin.

The makeup and costumes were all handled as if it were a professional play.

The lighting was greatly improved from past years with the addition of an enclosed booth, an impressive new control board, and new, more powerful lights.

The large set was well constructed to give the image of a full house. Authentic furniture added to the reality.

All the technical aspects of the play can be attributed to: the Ganse family, Kym Martin, Katie Costello, Debbie Mayer, Renee Wolozin, Kim Lawrence, Laura Lawlor, and Rob Mutzl.

Overall, the cast felt good about their performances. The play was a tremendous success and it was greatly enjoyed by all who saw it.

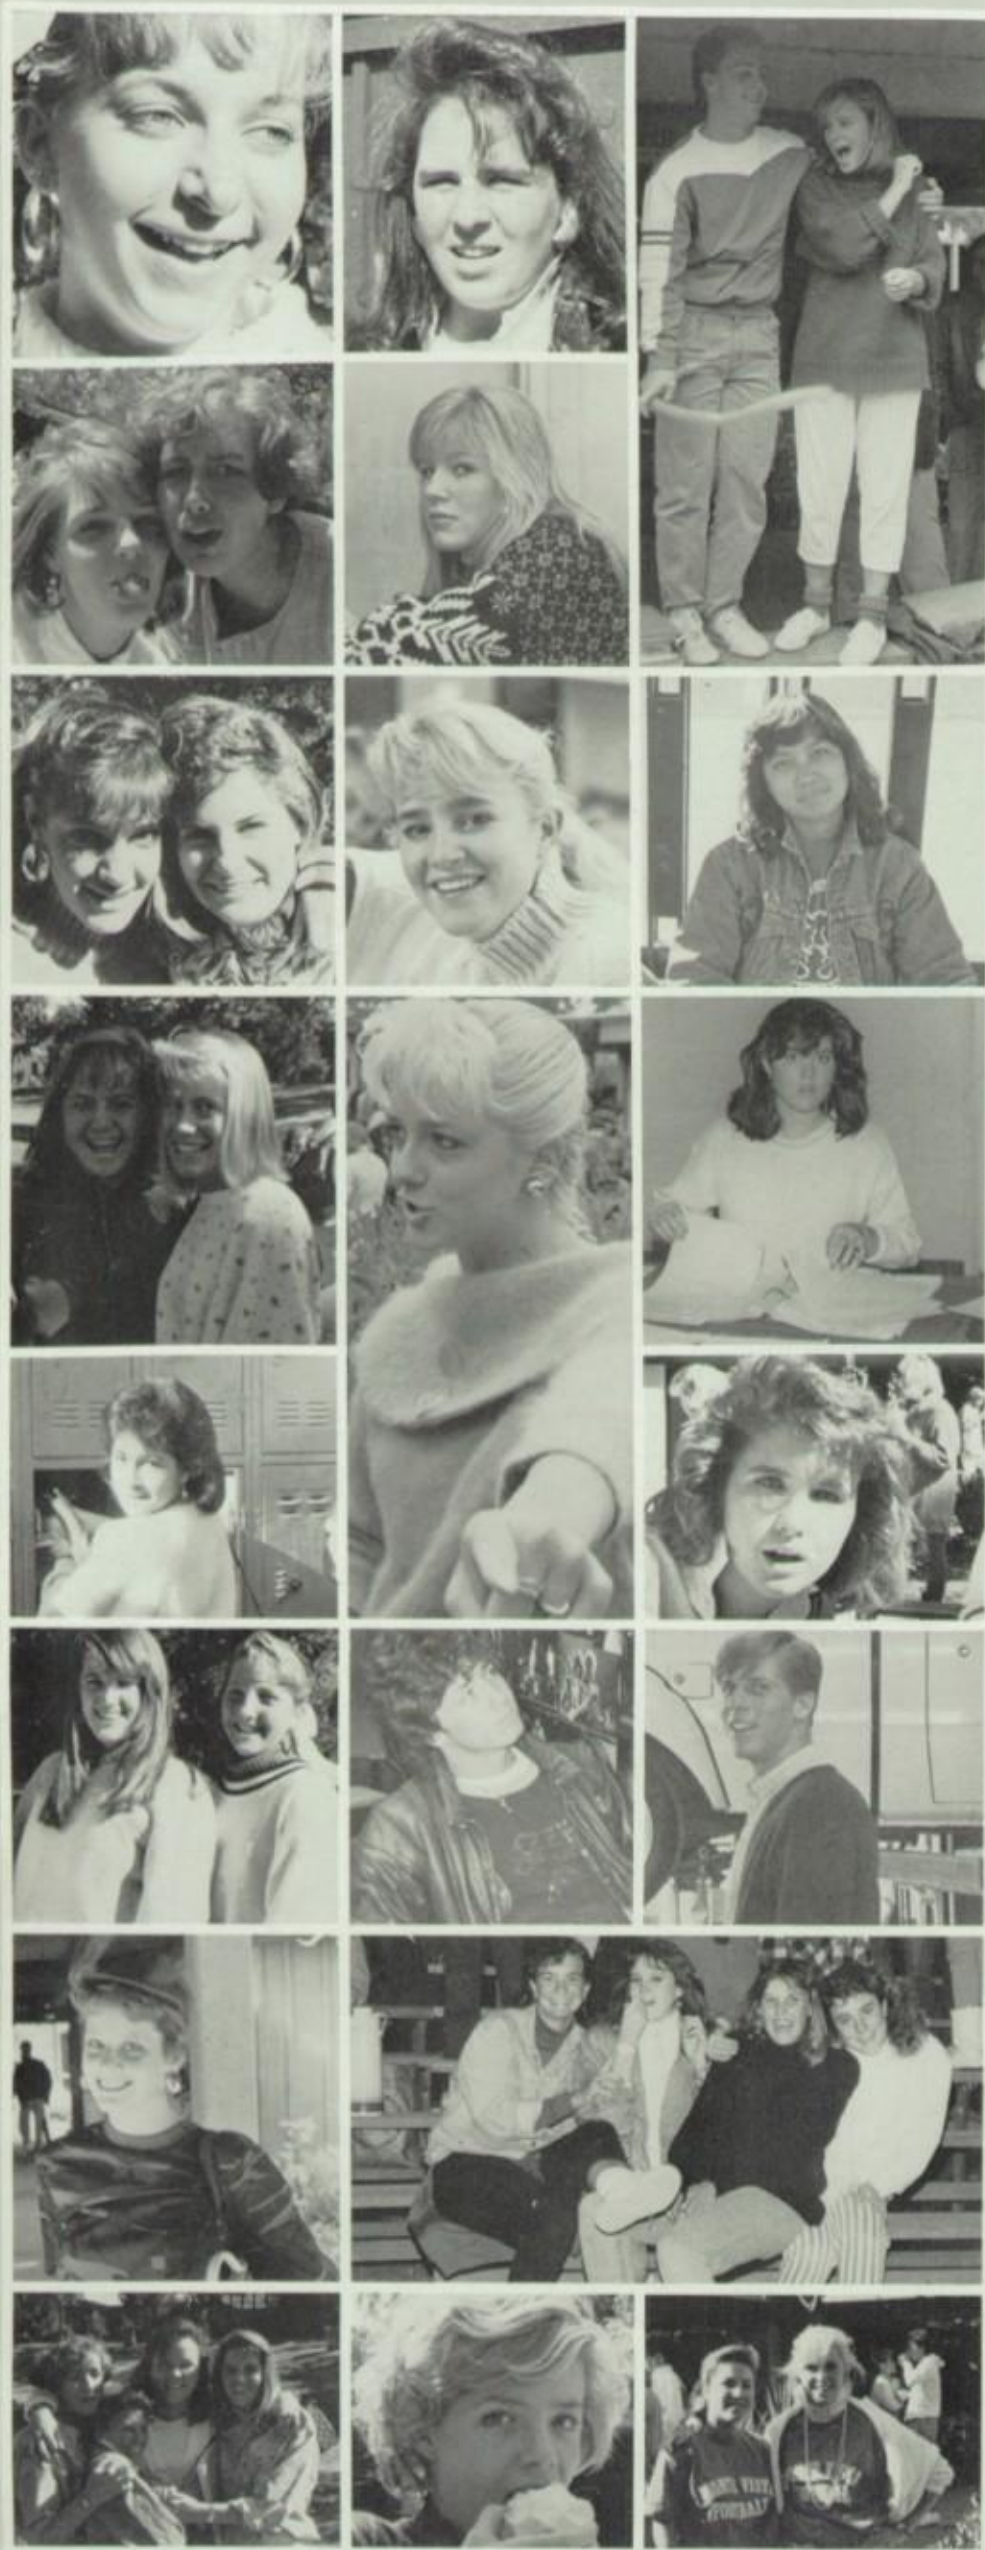

"And this is the nice man who came to visit us just the other night!"

CHOIR GIVES CONCERTED EFFORT

This year's Choir has grown to be a very active and successful organization on the Monte Vista campus. Because so many M.V. students are involved in choir, the yearbook has chosen to cover more than just what we usually see in regard to these groups. This page includes pictures from two of the groups' winter concerts. In addition to these concerts, choir has also held several others in the fall and spring.

This year, Chamber Singers chose to entertain parents and students in a medieval fashion, the Madrigal Dinner. In December the group spent long hours rehearsing and this paid off when they put on their grand performance. To the delight of those involved they were able to attain costumes that were used in an actual Shakespearean production. Chamber Singers is a very elite group possessing only very talented singers.

We hope that this will give more of an idea of the Choir department here at Monte Vista. Now you will know what they actually do and why this group exists, for your pleasure and for the development of certain M.V. students' talent.

SMOKING: AN ISSUE AGAIN

The New Law

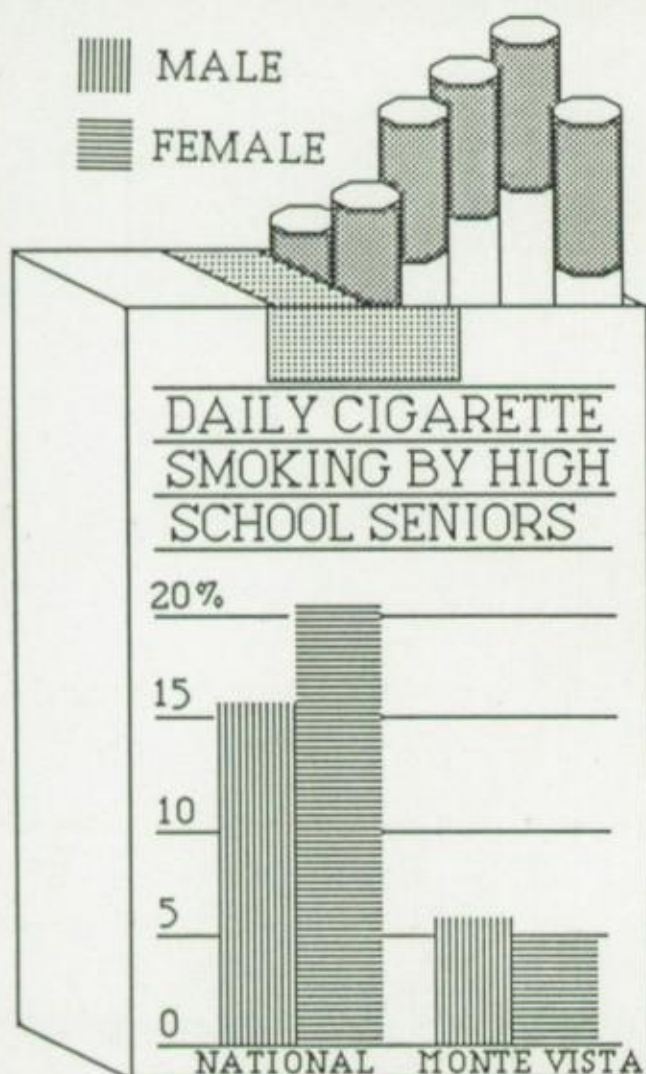

Assembly Bill No. 4085

Schools: Use of tobacco products.

This bill repeals the authority of the governing board of any school district maintaining a high school to adopt rules and regulations permitting the smoking and possession of tobacco on the campus of a high school or while under the authority of school personnel by pupils of the high school, and instead, provides that no school shall permit the smoking or use of tobacco, or nicotine products, by pupils of the school where the pupils are on campus, or while they are attending school-sponsored activities.

This bill also expands the grounds for suspension or expulsion to include the possession or use of any product containing tobacco or nicotine.

SMOKING
SMOKING

We are reminded every day of the conflict which exists between smokers and nonsmokers: there are smoking/nonsmoking sections in many restaurants, on airline flights, in workplaces, and even in some hotels. Numerous questions have been raised as to just how much smoking affects one's health. Is it really all that bad? The answer, as told by the U.S. Surgeon General, members of the health profession, and just about anyone who doesn't smoke, is a definite yes.

Lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer death for men, and is expected to surpass breast cancer as the leading cause of cancer death for women. This is surprising, since lung cancer is a largely preventable disease; an estimated 83% of deaths from lung cancer could be prevented if individuals never began smoking. Aside from its effects on the lungs, cigarette smoking has been implicated as a cause of cancer in other parts of the body such as the mouth, pharynx, esophagus, bladder, and pancreas. Other disorders caused by smoking are heart disease, ulcers and emphysema, not to mention the short-term effects: increased heart rate and blood pressure, eye irritation, yellow stains on teeth, reduced stamina and throat irritation. Cigarette smoking has a wide-spread effect on the body, due to the great amount of toxins inhaled with each puff. In addition to carbon monoxide, tar and nicotine, cigarette smoke contains other toxins such as toluene, a narcotic affecting the central nervous system, and vinyl chloride, a known liver carcinogen. These, along with an astounding number of other compounds, make up the approximately 4,000 substances known to be produced by a burning cigarette.

The concern surrounding the effects of smoking is not geared just toward adults. Two-thirds of all smokers begin before the age of 18, therefore much of the concern is to stop people from beginning the habit at an early age. In the 1960s, about twice as many boys as girls smoked. Now, at every age level (of the six million Americans under age 20 who smoke, 100,000 of them are 12 years old or younger), the percentage of girls smoking is the same or higher as that of boys. Smoking is no longer more prevalent for males: 1 out of 4 girls 17-18 years old is a smoker.

Since the new law forbidding smoking in high school, it will be interesting to see the effect it has on the statistics regarding smoking among teenagers. More and more, the message is getting across. Nonsmokers everywhere are determined to expose everyone to the truth: smoking is a direct cause of many diseases. These diseases are often easily preventable, either by never beginning or, as soon as possible, kicking the smoking habit. The Surgeon General reminds everyone that cigarette smoking is hazardous to one's health, but as yet, these words haven't had an astonishing effect on people's attitudes. Hopefully, in the future, people will come to realize just what they are doing as they inhale each puff. Until that time, people will have to suffer the consequences. Some 320,000 Americans will die prematurely this year of diseases linked to smoking. That's as many Americans as have been killed in all the wars fought in this century!

bove: Kim Whittaker Right: Don Conroy enjoys a smoke before the elimination of the smoking section.

WHERE DO WE GO?

The issue of smoking is not a new one around Monte Vista. We have had a smoking section for approximately ten years, but this January was the end of the tradition. As of January 1, 1987 all smoking sections in California High Schools were banned.

The "lower," as our smoking section was called, is no longer brimming full with kids between classes, at break and at lunch. Now, only a few die hard people congregate in the area once known as the smoking section.

We have found that the elimination of the smoking section has not caused kids to stop smoking. Instead, students have found different locations to "light up." Where do they go you ask? Well, some go to the park, others go out to the parking lot or across the street, and of course there are those who choose to smoke in the latrine. Habits haven't changed: Just locations.

How have Monte Vista Students and Faculty been affected by the sudden change? Here are some reactions:

"It Sucks," Dana Robertson.

"It's very inconsiderate," Kim Holmes.

"It doesn't really matter- I just go to the park," Kristina Luoma.

"The kids are being very mature and cooperative about the whole situation," Asst. Principals Shirley Gilfether and Rebecca Smith.

MONTE VISTA MARCHING BAND

THE BAND GOES MARCHING TWO BY TWO . . .

Marching on the field, one hundred and thirty members strong, the Monte Vista Marching Band is truly a sight to behold. Led by drum major Kristina Goldman, with help from director Jay Lehmann, the Mustang Marching Band exhibits their dedication and spirit by performing spectacular shows at the Varsity football games.

The marching band is one of the biggest organizations at Monte Vista. There are eighty-five band members and forty-five auxiliary members who work together to produce performances to perform in front of the school at rallies and football games. The group puts in long hours in order to perfect their performance. During third and fourth periods every day and on Wednesdays after school for two hours, the band members practice their playing and, in addition, the auxiliary groups practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays for an hour and a half.

This year, on the weekend beginning November 20th, the group travelled to Los Angeles for a four day trip, visiting Laguna Beach H.S., U.C.L.A., and The Los Angeles Observatory. They also spent an evening participating as a live audience at the "Mr. Belvedere" and "My Sister Sam" television tapings. The exciting weekend reached its climax when the entire group performed in a march down Main Street at Disneyland. Following tradition, the tour ended with an awards banquet, complete with gimmicks and joke awards.

Much hard work and extra effort is put forth by each member of the band and auxiliary groups. Their sense of unity and spirit is apparent in their dedication to first-class performance. As evidence of this spirit, remains of the spirit blanket from the first rally of the 1986-1987 school year hang proudly in the band room to remind the members of a great year.

After High school, what comes next? Well, for ninety-five percent of their senior class college will come next.

Many mixed emotions arise as seniors anticipate going off to college. It will be exciting to escape from the clutches of Mom and Dad, and move into a world of freedom. But along with this excitement comes the sadness and anxiety of being forced to stand on "your own two feet." College means going off into a new world leaving the old one behind. It means leaving your close friends, the dog, and cute room, and going off into the real world to create a new world.

College will present every student with a clean slate. No scars from high school will exist. Even the popularity some once possessed in high school will not exist in college. No one will care who you once were, but who you have become. College will provide students with the opportunity to let down their facades and be themselves.

Unlike high school, college will allow students to become responsible for their own actions. Sitting and listening in class will no longer provide students with the "A's." College will be a challenge and much more rigorous than the high school. The work in college will be much harder therefore, you will be able to play harder.

Wherever most seniors decide to go, it will be a fun and worthwhile experience. College will be the place where close friends will be met and stressful situations dealt with. But no matter how each senior views college or how they will experience it, the education the students receive will be what pushes them forward into the future.

How does a senior get into the college of choice? This question was answered on selected days when college reps came to the career center to talk to students about the college, admission requirements and other aspects of searching for the perfect school for each student. California universities, because of their popularity, made their presentations in the theater. Mostly seniors, although there were some juniors, learned more about each of the UC campuses, as well as the State campuses. The appearance of these representatives made the task of applying to college a little bit easier on students: they were told how to fill out the often complicated forms, what to include in the essay, what financial aid is and how to apply for it. These presentations are well worth the class time they take up. To some students they mean making the choice between an okay school and the school which is just right for them.

HOT OFF THE PRESS!!!

EL MESTENGO STAFF

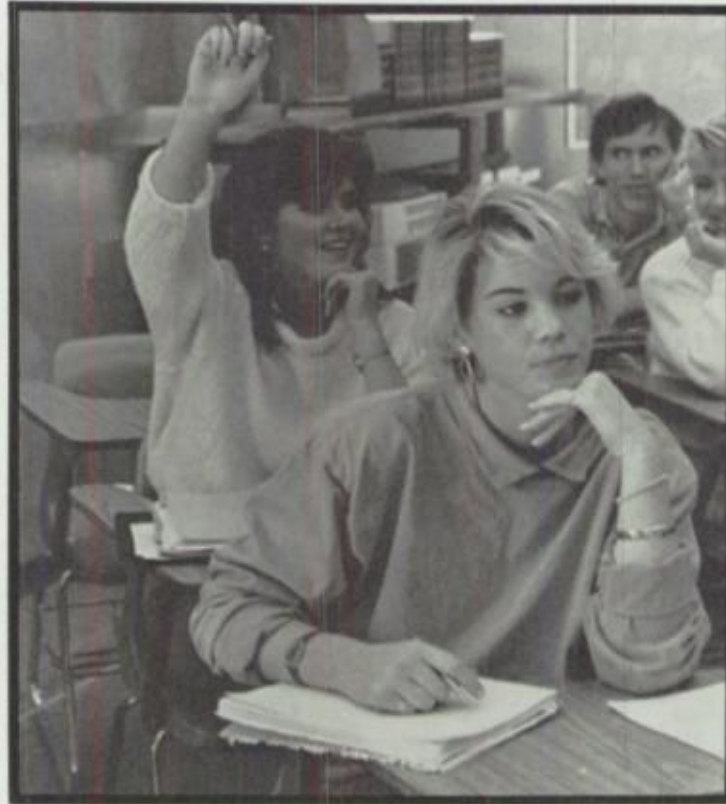

The two journalism classes taught 5th and 6th periods by Mrs. Gloria Pellom are the heart and soul behind the school newspaper, El Mestengo. Carrie Madsen is the editor-in-chief. Individuals from the two classes volunteer to work on the layouts of certain pages. The layout sessions are after school, the Wednesday before the paper comes out. The page editors are ever-changing. One month Liz Forsee and Kristi Wilkins may be the editorial page editors, Rob Humphrey and Paul Foster sports editors, Lori Shimansky and Jennifer Olds with feature; but the next month one might find Whitney Walker and Jenny Sterling heading the editorial page, Karen Dong, Michelle Bartlett and Belinda Saunders working on the folder.

The paper comes out monthly and similar to a major newspaper, includes feature articles, editorials, news, and a sports section. El Mestengo tries to produce noteworthy and interesting reading, relevant to the lives of MV students. Once in a while an article comes out dealing with topics affecting the nation, such as the Pro/Con editorial in the November issue concerning U.S. - Soviet nuclear disarmament proposals.

Being a part of the newspaper is a worthwhile experience. It takes hard work and thought to put forth a newspaper which people will enjoy reading. That isn't easy!

Mike McEuen hard at work, as usual.

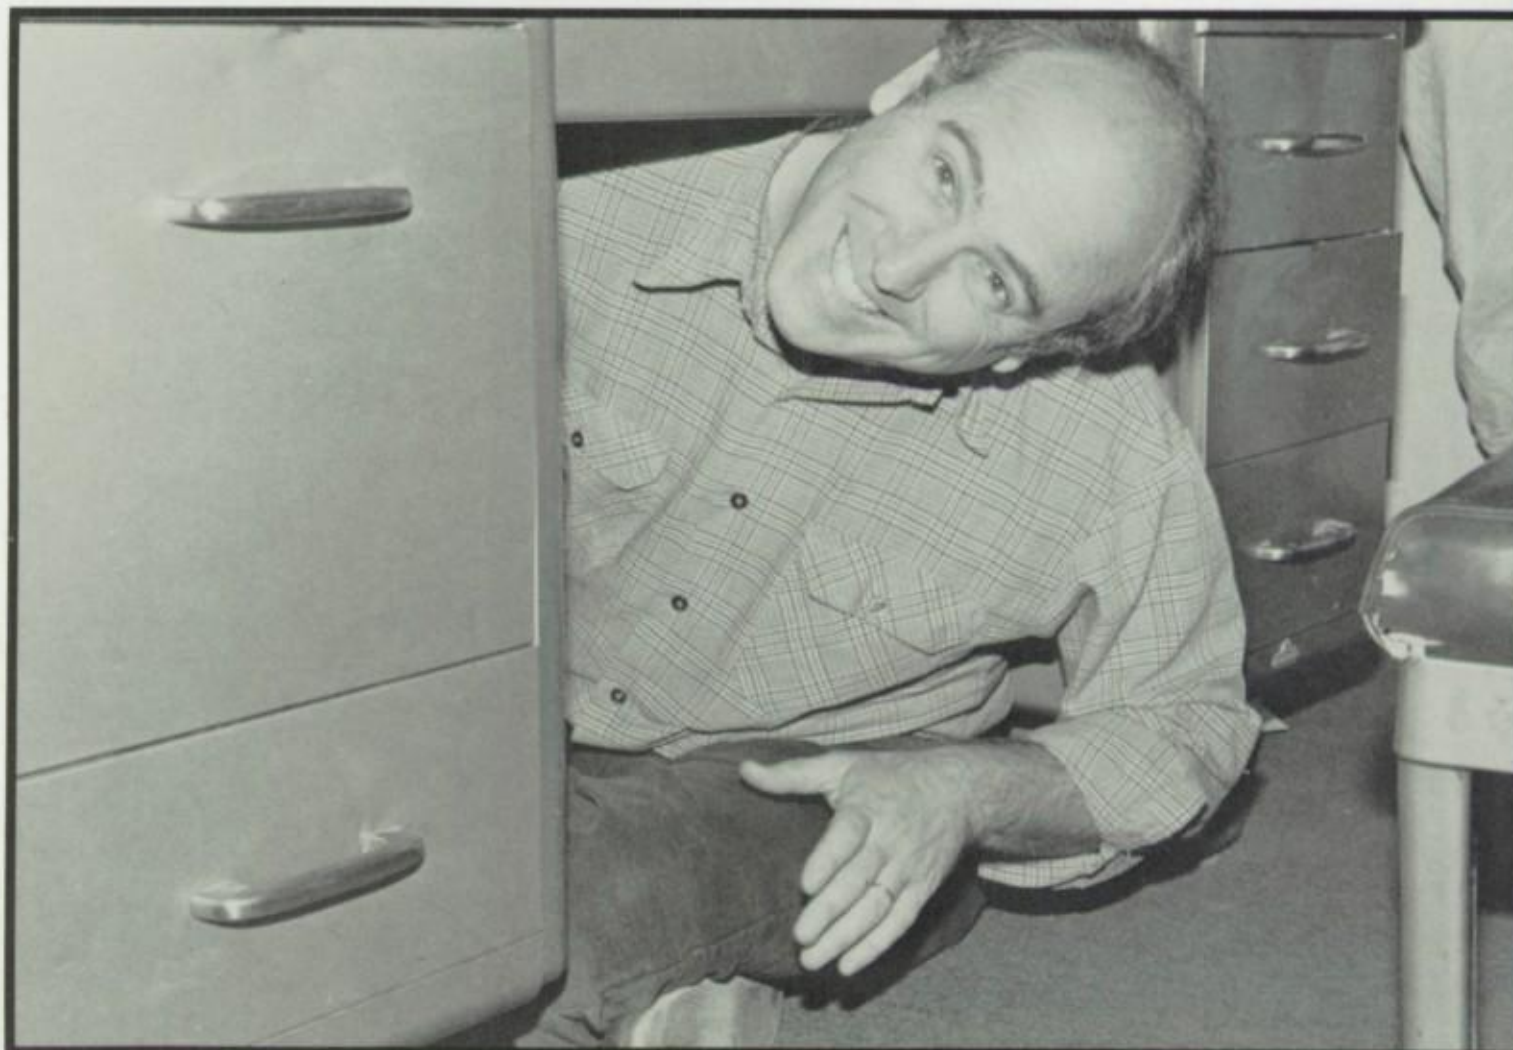

Meredith Furtney one of the most dedicated La Vistans.

The View that's the name of the book, and that's exactly what we intend to give you. The staff of La Vista '86 took on the substantial responsibility and hard work of producing a yearbook in order to record the people and events of the 1986-87 school year.

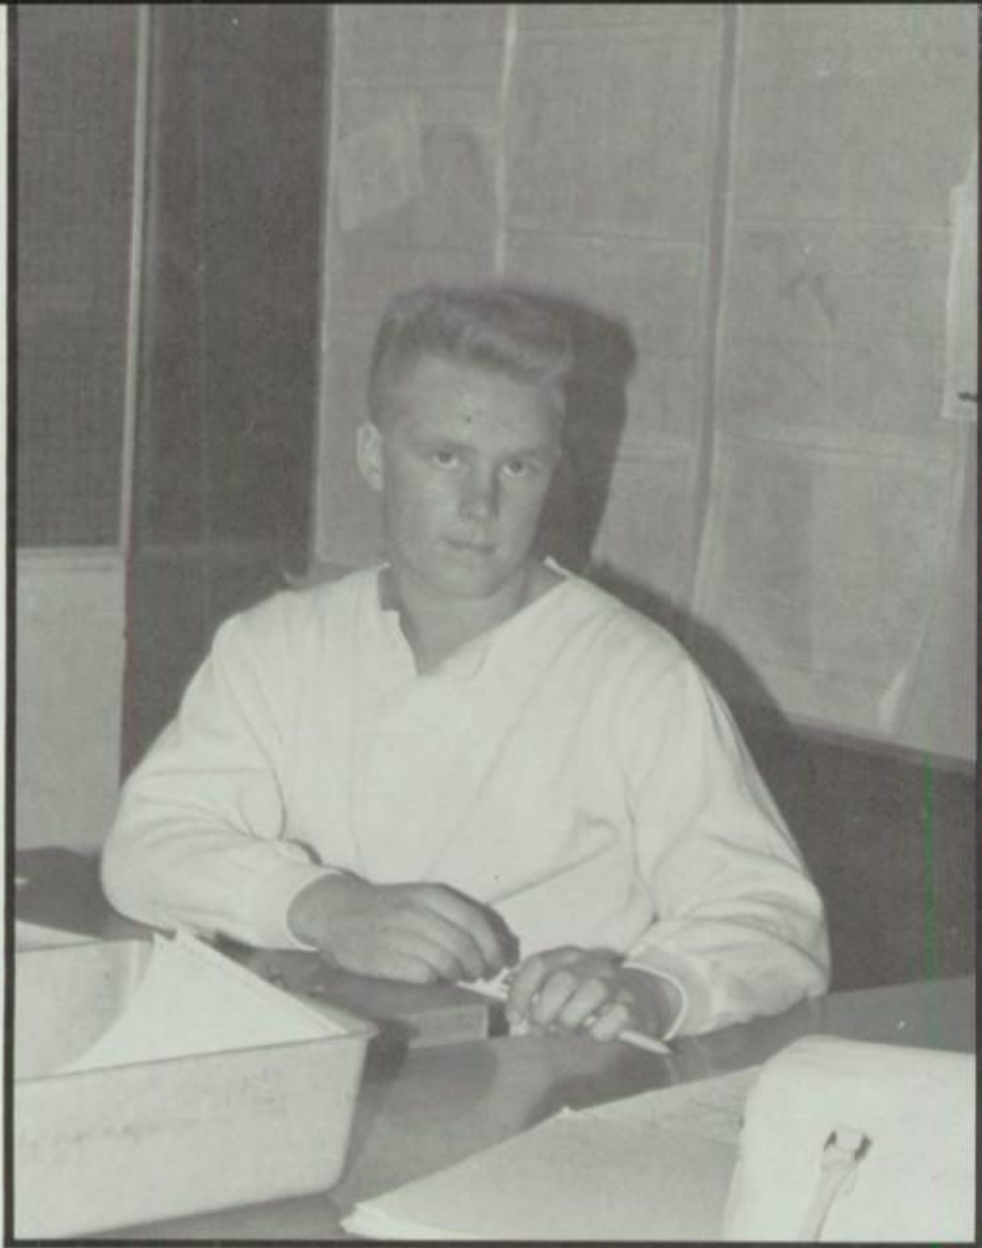

The view people's opinions and feelings about their school and their life, facts and figures about the student body as a whole, and interesting trivia about the school and its people. In producing La Vista '86, the staff, under the direction and with the aid of advisor Mr. Breuer worked together to present all these aspects which are a part of Monte Vista life.

Three returning staff members fulfilled the positions of editors. Pam Fagerlin, in her fourth year on the staff was the continuity and theme editor, Jennifer Burleson, in her second year, was the layout editor, and Cindy Trezek, in her second year, was the photo editor.

Julie Corr was in charge of the Senior section, Mike McEuen, with the help of Jerry Zampino, did the Junior section, and to present the underclassmen were Meredith Furtney and Jon Glubetich doing Freshmen, and Justin McNichols and Todd Wallis doing Sophomores. The sports section was pulled off thanks to Micky Paris, Jon Glubetich, and Dan Lynch. Activities and Organizations, the largest and often a very difficult section was done by Michelle Neill, Karen Dong, and Jennifer MacHugh, with the aid of the editors. The small, yet worthwhile faculty section was done by Rob Mutzl, Karen Dong was also very busy with this years index. Photographers included: Mimi Clair, Stacey Bowman, Jeff Brown, Laura Reed, Diana Ferstl, Jennifer Gerton, Mimi Horton, Dan Lynch, Michelle Morgan, Michelle Thompson, Kindra Devaney, and, of course, Mr. Breuer himself.

This year is a very special one for the Monte Vista Speech and Debate Team: It is the last year Phyllis Walker will be acting as coach.

The novices, or first year students are always a touch overwhelmed by the amount they need to learn. By the end of their year they have learned to debate both policy and values, to use parliamentary procedure better than most congressmen, and to do any of eight individual events. Most importantly, they learn how to stand up in front of people (even fellow students the most ferocious audience of all!) and speak. And not die of fright.

The second, third and fourth year students generally take more advantage of the Saturday tournaments. They travel to other schools and have a chance to use the speeches they prepare in class, get recognition for jobs well done, and have fun!! Yes, fun.

The class is as time consuming as you make it. No one will deny its worth. Yes, Monte Vista's Speech and Debate Team has had State and National champions, but more importantly it has turned a whole lot of terrified novices into confident speakers!

GIVE LIFE . . . GIVE BLOOD

Monte Vista had its first blood drive of the school year on December 4, 1986. The Blood Bank of the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association comes to the school twice a year, once in the fall and once in the spring. As first time donors filed into the theatre, everyone kept asking, "Does it hurt? How long does it take?" 12 nurses were set up to accommodate the donors. The blood bank staff consisted of 9 nurses, 2 drivers, 1 canteen person, 1 registrar, and 1 doctor.

There were 138 students and faculty who took time out of their day to donate blood. Monte Vista has a blood account registered, and with every unit of blood donated through the school drive, a unit goes into the school's account. The benefit is that any member of the school or a relative that ever needs blood may defer their costs by using the MV blood account. This means that people can get $25 off an $80 unit of blood.

There are a few basic guidelines for giving blood: you must weigh at least 110 pounds, and be at least 17 years old. Actual donation time takes anywhere from 4 to 15 minutes, varying from person to person. It's painless and it helps the blood bank tremendously.

The Blood Bank of the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association supplies 33 hospitals in these few counties with blood. Approximately 250-300 units of blood are needed, a day, to keep up with the demand. So have a heart, and give a part of yourself, so someone else can have a chance.

TERPSICHOREANS TRIUMPH!!

The fall dance show was held on November 5, 1986 in the gym, but this time, instead of merely doing exercises, the girls and Mrs. Sue Gordon decided to do some actual dancing. Of course they did some warm-up exercises for the crowd at the start of the show. Girls were leaping across the floor as they were introduced, although not all were girls. A highlight of this year's dance classes are two guys: Chris Geremia and Schon Branum. These two guys are featured in the Intermediate II dance class.

A great variety of dances were performed. The advanced class did dances to A Chorus Line and Running Scared. Advanced Intermediate performed to Situation (music by Yaz) and Master and Servant (music by Depeche Mode). The PomPon quad did a routine to Mein Herr which was featured in last year's dance show "Conga." Alison Alter, Leslie Hale, and Catherine Beighley did a dance to Burning Up. But everyone conceded the fact that the dancers who got the most attention, whistles, and yells were Chris Geremia and Schon Branum.

The advanced class members are Allison Alter, Rebecca Anderson, Flynn Beck, Jeanna Cook, Kim Dermody, Leslie Hale, Sarah Hansen, Elizabeth Isom, Victoria Johnson, Wendy Jones, Courtney Kleinert, Deborah Mayer, Susan Moschell, Kathleen Murphy, Allison Ostria, Julie Palma, Elizabeth Reeves, Barbara Schneider, Pamela Sower, Hilary Sperling, Katherine Stern and Mary Upp.

The advanced Intermediate class includes Julie Akey, Jennifer Alpert, Marci Appleton, Katherine Beighley, Anika Dahlstrom, Chris Dawson, Deanna Edgerton, Aimee Eiguren, Julie Gambs, Amy Gardiner, Katherine Johnston, Christina Kobold, Melinda Lawrence, Jennifer Lubking, Andrea Makeley, Nicole McGrew, Diane Nelson, Jennifer Padden, Sandy Quinones, Sarah Rufenacht, Michelle Simkin, Deborah Skelton, Kelly Vittetoe and Heather Woods.

Included in the Intermediate class are: Angela Ames, Kerstin Anderson, Christine Baroumand, Gia Beem, Schon Branum, Julie Crew, Kathryn Erickson, Heidi Finke, Suzy Garner, Chris Geremia, Tracey Gleason, Dana Haley, Lori Herzog, Chris Hughes, Kelly Knudson, Kristin Knudsen, Alison Kolb, Nancy Mayer, Angie Miles, Amy Ovlen, Lisa Parker, Melinda Roberts, Angela Sabatino, Alesha Silva, Fiona Sinclair, Kristin Soderling, Kristen Stein, and Lori Wainio.

MUSTANG'S SPIRIT LEADERS

POM PON GIRLS AND VARSITY CHEER

The Monte Vista Varsity Cheerleaders and Pom Pon Girls are a vital part of our school. They spend hours practicing for games and rallies. They also spend time during homecoming doing special things for the football players, and preparing them for the great homecoming game. This year, our football players were able to go to the coliseum to play in the championship game. Our Pom Pon squad performed a wonderful routine, while the Varsity Cheerleaders rooted them on.

Every summer our cheerleaders have an opportunity to go to camp, and learn new cheers and pom routines. This prepares them for the year, and it also gives the girls a chance to get to know one another.

This year's group is especially talented. Most of the girls either participate in the dance program here at M.V. or they are involved in outside dance programs. Their talent is clearly obvious in their abilities to perform excellent routines and cheers in front of the school.

In order to keep the group organized, each squad has a head cheerleader. This year, Flynn Beck was head of the Pom Pon Girls, and Karen Libby was head Varsity Cheerleader. Mr. Morrison advises these girls in all of their activities, but basically they are responsible for themselves.

"We've got the spirit, yes we do, we've got the spirit, how 'bout you?!" That seems to be the motto for our Rah-Rah's (or spirit leaders, as they prefer to be called). Short skirts, plastered on smiles and long flowing hair, our girls work hard and yell loud.

All four squads work to create new cheers and moves to avoid any monotony in their routines. Pom seems to have the most variety, but you can usually count on them to show their horseshoes emblazed on their rears.

It takes a lot of dedication, time and money to be a cheerleader. Summer practice begins right after school ends in June. Practice is from 8am to 10am every morning until September. Once school begins, practice is held every afternoon. And that is where they work out new routines and perfect their old routines.

TOUGH GIRLS TIE

Once again the girls of Monte Vista proved that football isn't a man's sport. It's a sport for all. The juniors and seniors donned their football jerseys and set out for long, grueling practices.

The seniors went at it with full vigor. They learned plays, how to tackle, how to dodge and how to kick, scratch and punch. They were really serious. They wanted to win! It didn't even matter how they won, they wanted it so badly.

The juniors, on the other hand, decided to play fair. They spent their practice time on learning plays, tackles, dodges and other fair games tactics.

After many long hours of practice, the game finally arrived. Kickoff time came and the cheerleaders were out in full force. But, who were they? If all the girls were playing, did that mean that those people running around in skirts were guys? Yes. Such "men" as Jim Beighley, Scott Stockton, and Chris Flosi were trying to impress those macha football players.

During the first quarter, the seniors seemed to be gaining quite a bit on the juniors. The sneaky tricks they had learned seemed to really be paying off. The score inched up in their favor and stayed that way until halftime.

During halftime, the juniors decided that they had had enough. They took the tape off of their nails and decided to get really tough.

The unsuspecting seniors were getting ready for another great half.

The teams came back onto the field, both of them hyped and ready to beat the other.

Now is when the dirty deeds really got done. A senior hit a junior and she had to stop playing because of a sprained nose. There were many pulled muscles, and even a bunch of bruises all around.

The juniors started to fight back and started gaining points. They finally ended up tying the score and that was how the game ended.

Neither of the teams were satisfied, but they weren't able to go into overtime.

MUSTANGS CRUSH AMADOR

FOOTBALL WAS NOT THE ONLY ATTRACTION

The Marching Band entertains the crowd at half-time.

Excitement and tension was in the air as Homecoming week came to a close. Friday night was the scene for the big game against Amador.

At half-time Monte Vista had a comfortable lead. The half-time show had the members of the band marching to songs on the field. Then the Homecoming court and floats were driven around the track. Those princes who were on the football team were replaced by willing and able escorts.

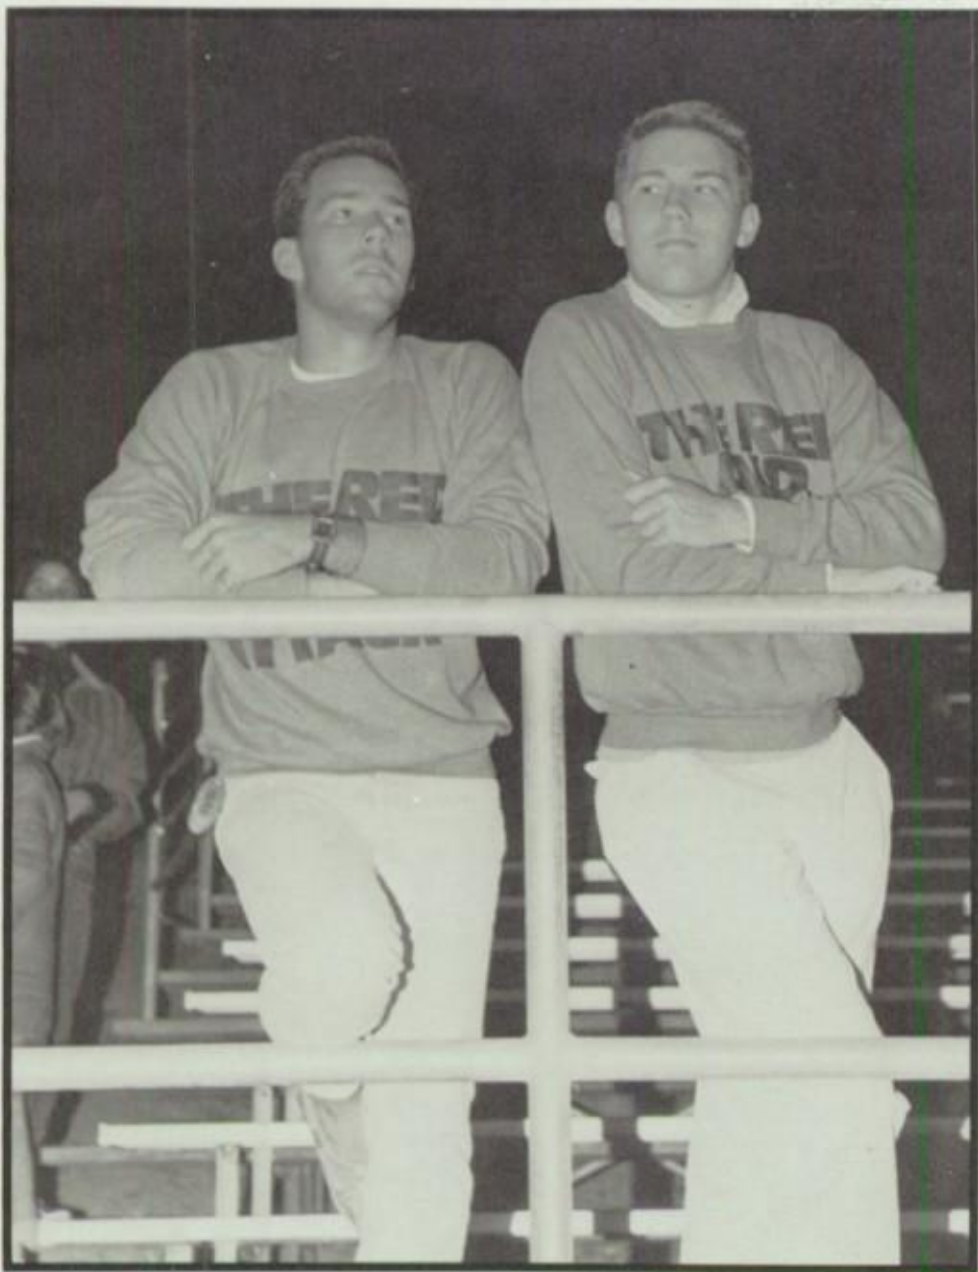

As the floats paraded around for the cheering stands, one seemed to be missing. Unfortunately, the sophomore float missed the parade because of technical difficulties.

Third quarter began and the teams returned to the field. The final score was outrageous. Monte Vista rallied to score 66 points over Amador's 16 points.

The Monte Vista leadership classes are very important to the students attending M.V.H.S. This class not only contains the student body and class officers, but also students who feel the need to help out M.V. These dedicated members meet twice a week to discuss the activities at hand. They are the ones who make the calendar of activities for MV students and make many decisions such as what the Homecoming theme will be. Each member must spend many hours making the activities work out, such as Homecoming week, dances, flower sales, class picnics, and any other activity which takes place on campus. The dedication of this class is shown throughout the year as we watch each activity become a success.

SHOWING YOUR SPIRIT

Homecoming Activities A Big Success

Sandy Quinones models the new "wet look."

Rob Jameson and Andy Voltmer at their best.

Homecoming week was filled with exotic places this year since the theme was "favorite vacation spots." The seniors were "Lei'd" in Hawaii, Juniors joined the Mickey Mouse Club in Disneyland, the Sophomores skied their way down the slopes in Tahoe and Freshmen hunted for King Tut in Egypt.

The week was filled with fun activities and spirit. Each day brought its own individual theme and lunchtime activity. Monday was the age of Aquarius, or the 1960's if you will. Spontaneous protests and sit-ins were staged by long-haired, tie-dyed shirt bearing "hippies." At lunchtime a bucket pass was on the agenda.

Tuesday, Monte Vista was invaded by nerds. Calculators and numerous pens and pencils were seen everywhere carried by our studious children. The obstacle course was the activity at lunch.

World War III stormed its way to MV Wednesday as combat was the theme. Pyramid building was held on the grass as the classes tried to stack themselves on top of each other as they chewed bubble gum.

And Friday the classes dressed in their own personal themes. The rally was won by the seniors and the total points for the week was added up after the float competition showed that the seniors had capped their final year at MV with a win for Homecoming Week.

HOMECOMING 1986

Friday, October 17, 1986, the big day of our homecoming game. Third period ended and there was a rush to get the "best seats" in the gym to see the 1986 Monte Vista Homecoming Courts.

To show class spirit, each class had their own way of showing it. Seniors made a "fashionable" late appearance into the gym as they ran in chanting "Seniors get lei'd!" Juniors had their Disney character rings and sophomores and freshmen just tried to look excited.

The students anxiously awaited the announcements of the royalty. Becky Blanding and Lane Hale were the freshmen princess and prince, Nancy Mayer and Chris Antone were announced as the sophomore princess and prince. Junior prince and princess were Stewart Hansen and Cami Edwards.

Then came the senior announcements. Leslie Hale, for the fourth year in a row won princess and this year she had two princes to escort her. The two lucky guys were Jeff Miller and Jim Beighley. Scot Boatright and Leslie Stevens were the other senior prince and princess. And finally, Wendell Richardson and Flynn Beck were crowned the reigning King and Queen.

TOMA PROVES IT TAKES GUTS

On October 6, 1986, David Toma walked into the Monte Vista gym and kept over 1600 students spellbound during his two and a half hour talk. "I'm going to wipe some of those smiles off your faces before you leave today. I guarantee it," he told students.

The majority of his talk focused on the long-term effects of drugs on the body. The presentation was intensified by first-hand accounts of his experience while in the police force. Toma also spent a large portion of the time talking about alcohol. He complained that the commercials containing the slogan "don't drink and drive" are missing the point entirely. This crap about don't drink and drive and drinking and driving isn't what is killing kids," he said. "Drinking is what's killing kids." He spoke in absolutes.

Toma is a firm believer that you needn't succumb to peer pressure. He made it clear to many students that they don't need drugs to be "in". You kids all want to be accepted, but you forget what accepted really means. A friend doesn't say "let's do drugs and kill ourselves."

His approach may be a bit extreme, a bit shocking, and to some people very emotional, but maybe that's what some kids need. Maybe Toma is the best judge of what works, considering that he's talked to millions of kids across the nation, but that can be debated.

Some kids were a bit disappointed, even disgruntled.

They felt that Toma's style and message were not appropriate for our particular school. His examples of the drug situations came from Newark and the East Coast, but nothing we could really relate to. Some people felt that little Toma talked about was really relevant to our community.

Many felt he was unnecessarily condemning everyone who has a bad vice, that they would be a failure in life and as a person.

One girl who was in the smoking area after the presentation had this to say about Toma, "He went overboard. He makes it sound like anyone who does anything at all will never make it in life and that's just not true." These feelings were quite common after the Toma presentation.

Toma did get through to many people, as was obvious by the large turnout for the small discussion groups, as well as by the discussions held during classtime. The reason for his effectiveness is the fact that he cares.

Throughout the presentation, it was evident that he really does care. He simply wants kids to think twice before subjecting their bodies to the effects of drugs and alcohol. He conveyed these messages effectively and with great emotion during the few hours he was at Monte Vista. As he ended his 2 1/2 hour presentation, he cried out emphatically, "Don't quit for me baby. Do it for yourself. I love you all."

"This stuff is killing you!"

FRANCE-WHAT AN ADVENTURE

Monte Vistans Take To France

Patricia Boyar, teacher as tour guide extraordinair.

Every summer small groups of Monte Vistans go to Europe. One chaperone handling such a group is Mrs. Pat Boyar, the French teacher here since the school opened. The trip isn't just for fun, it's a very enlightening experience.

Last summer this touring group started out in Paris instead of London. Usually the tour starts in London then goes to France, but since they were staying with host families in Nice, the tour started in Paris.

In Nice, the group went to a french school for three hours a day. The host families knew little or no English at all, so the students had to polish up on their French. All in all, the trip is a very worthwhile experience.

WELCOME TO WOMBATANIA

A poor, unwed mother of three, a highly successful landlord, a minister sporting Ray-Bans and a vial of holy water, and a young man complete with love beads, fighting for mankind's natural rights: what do these people have in common? They, along with other members of the Civics classes, were a part of the annual Condo Power game, brought to the MV campus by our own Carl Strand and Pat McMillan.

Should the tenants of Slobbovian Shanties be evicted by the landlords of Wombatania County in order to make way for luxurious and expensive condos? Each class, divided into specific groups, argued this question, then presented their views to the Planning Commission, an elite group of 3-6 individuals selected at random from the groups.

"You can't just throw us out on the streets!", cried a desperate woman clinging to two small children. "We must make way for the future . . . we are concerned with the welfare of the community," responded the head of the landlords. The Liberal league, concerned with the tenants welfare, as well as that of the community, generally saw the condos as a threat to both the people and to the society as a whole. The Conservative Club, made up of successful local businessmen, tended to support the landlords in their efforts. Propaganda flew wildly between the groups.

("Eliminate the breeding grounds for the Devil's work!" "No condos." "Save a tenant, club a landlord.") Each group sought to gain an advantage over the others. Also influencing the decision of the Planning commission were the Minister's Alliance and the Media. Nuns in black stockings and pumps, as well as roving editorialists swayed the odds as the competition became more fierce.

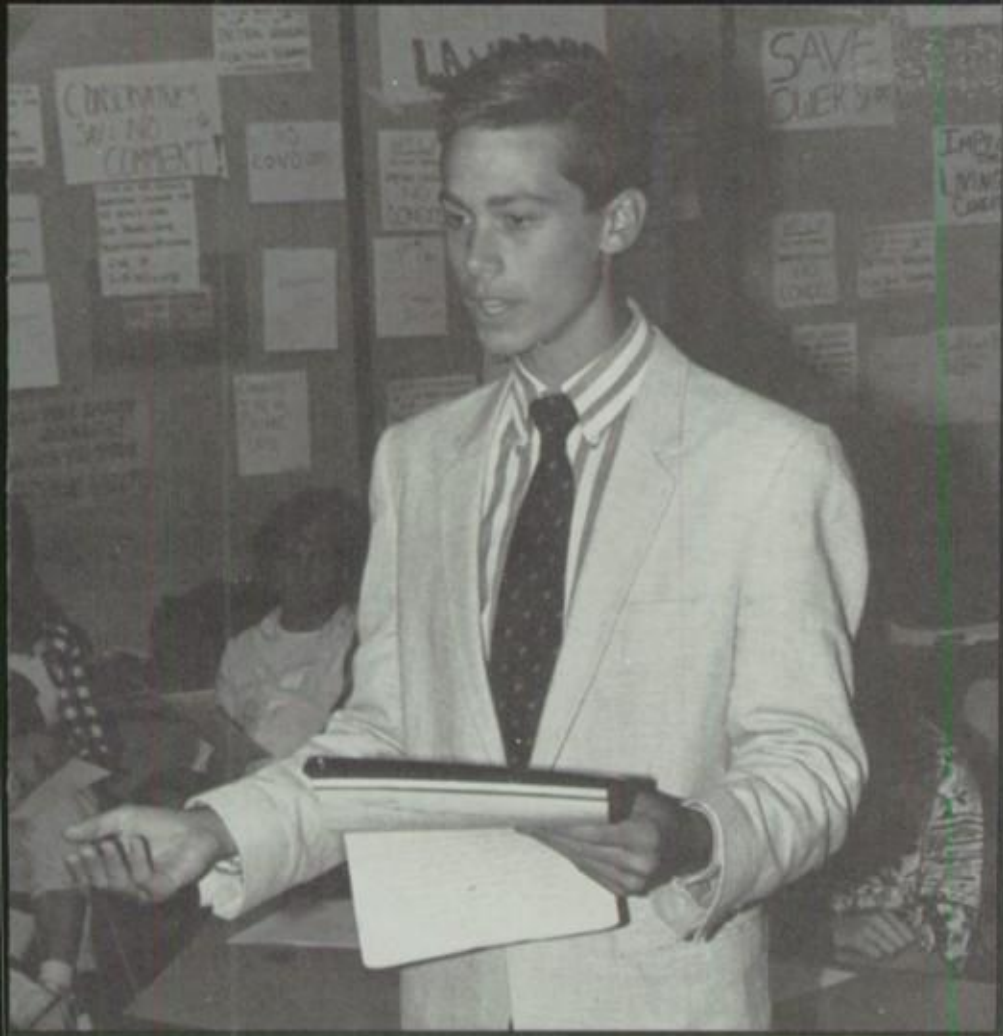

The outcome of each class was different, but the Fall 1986 condos game definitely made a mark in Mr. Strand's collection of slides depicting the game throughout the course of its existence.

The National Honor Society at Monte Vista is an academic club. To become a member a person must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or above. Not only do they have to maintain this average, but they must also show their leadership qualities by participating in activities both at Monte Vista and in the community.

For example, during the Christmas season, this group is active in the adopt-a-family program. They also help the students in ways such as informing them of the scholarships available for various classes.

One fundraiser which N.H.S. plans to hold is a book sale. They plan to sell books that give tips on how to apply for admission to a college or university. These books give such information as how to fill out an application and how to make a good impression at your college interview.

N.H.S.'s officers include: President Aaron McGrath, Vice Pres. Justine Witt, Treasurer Mark Palmer and Secretary Julie Trent.

The members of N.H.S. are very dedicated to helping the community and also the students of M.V.

RAINBOW STUDIOS

Television Just For You...

"Everyone quiet and start getting ready for the lights," yells Chet Farrow as he starts the countdown. "5 ... 4 ... 3 ... 2 ... you're on," and lights flood the room. From another part of the room, the opening song of Monte Vista's own weekly television show is heard.

After the music, Kumiko Yoshida is seen sitting at a desk, ready to report. "Hi, and welcome to Rainbow Studios," she says. The first thing on the agenda is the movie review.

The movies reviewed here are ones that kids are really interested in. There are lots of teen movies out there waiting to be reviewed. Records and other things are also reviewed.

Rainbow Studios is a television show for kids by kids: everything that gets done is done by the students.

It would be hard enough to just sit in front of a camera and recite while knowing that there are thousands of people watching you, but the students are also responsible for producing and editing this show. It is not easy, but these students seem to enjoy it. They work really hard to make their show as good as they want it to be.

And as for Chet, he's just glad when it's all over.

COMPUTER CLUB

The Computer Club consists of: Mrs. Krane, Dawn O'Donnell, Marc Peters, Spencer Wasden, Rob Humphrey, Alan Ku, Bill Smales, Elaine Wang, Drew Cheng, Nick Trown, Steve Stuart, and Ben Kingsbury

Computers are machines of the near future. The computer club at Monte Vista was a developing one this year, showing much promise for years to come. Besides discussing topics affiliated with computers at monthly meetings, the club successfully co-hosted a three day showing of the movie Clue. With the profits made from a candy sale sponsored by the computer club, many ideas were taken into consideration—a field trip, buying computers and hardware, or marketing software. With all the bright minds of the members that comprised the club this year, the near future looks good for the computer club.

Ben Kingsbury shows us how exciting computer club meetings are.

YOU'VE GOT THE CUTEST LITTLE...BABY FACE!

As the saying goes: You've got the cutest little baby face! We have assembled 21 of the cutest little baby pictures. These cute little people have grown up to be even cuter high school students who attend Monte Vista. How well do you think you know your fellow MV students? Here's just a little test to see just how well you can recognize your friends. Try to guess which babies are which. Here's a hint: Most are seniors, but stay away from the "senior bench crowd" as most of them are not included in this feature. Have fun and good luck!

A. P. Music Theory

The Advanced Placement Music Theory class offered at Monte Vista High School is designed to provide music students with an opportunity to learn about the many aspects of music beyond performance, with emphasis on analysis, of composers from Bach to Webern.

In the course of one year, most members of the class progress from little knowledge of general theory to a level of confidence sufficient to pass the Advance Placement Music Theory exam. Beginning with the careful study of Bach's 371 Chorales, the ability to realize figured bass passages and compose melodies becomes much easier.

Within the year's curriculum, members of the class complete a woodwind, brass, or string quartet as their semester final and a composition for a large group, such as an Orchestra, Band, Or Choir for the end of the year final. Weekly projects include score study and music listening as well as dictation of rhythm, melody, and chord progressions. Students also learn how to write for specific instruments and voices of all ranges.

An important aspect of the class is that it is not designed for music majors only. Any student with basic music skills will be able to prepare for and pass the Advance Placement Music exam. The credit granted in most cases is non-major, undergraduate credit suitable for fulfillment of general education requirements for the completion of a Bachelor of Arts Degree.

The members of the class are generally eleventh and twelfth graders, but the class is open to all high school students with a basic understanding of music reading. Not all students take the Advanced Placement exam, and it is not a requirement. But those who have taken the test have generally been successful.

Recently, Mr. Lehmann and the class were awarded First Place in the high school fine arts division of a competition held by the California School Board Association. He was presented with the highest prize in California education, the Golden Bell for outstanding curricula. There are very few theory classes throughout the state and students at Monte Vista have done very well on the A.P. Music Theory test. Hard work and dedication by Mr. Lehmann and the members of the theory class have brought the state wide recognition to Monte Vista and the entire school is proud of their achievements.

Students in Action consists of a group of Monte Vista students working to make the school a welcome place to both new students and old alike. One of its jobs is to introduce the new students to the school. One of the members of Students in Action escorts the new students around campus, explaining classes and introducing them to new people.

Another feature of this club is the idea of secret pals. Each member chooses a teacher to give gifts and notes to for a semester or for a year. The club is structured in such a way that every teacher gets something, whether it be from a single student or a group of students. For every 15 hours of work, each member can earn one credit which goes toward graduation.

Students in Action has taken the place of the infamous Climate Club. Their intentions are to improve the atmosphere here at Monte Vista.

MEMORABLE MASKED MUSTANGS

HALLOWEEN RALLY AT MONTE VISTA...

Alison Forman - clowning around!

Halloween came and went during the 1986-87 school year, but not before Monte Vista students had a chance to celebrate the event. In addition to dressing up, Halloween was made even more memorable due to the fact that it happened to fall on a Friday, the day of the Monte Vista/Dublin High football rally.

In accordance with the theme, the rally activities included bobbing for apples, a pumpkin carving contest, and a surprise appearance by a "six-pack" of seniors (Danny Dyer, Bob Murphy, Howie Greene, Adam Gottlieb, Darrin Long, and Mike Doyle) calling themselves "the brew crew", and their leader Jeff Berry posing as the St. Paulie Girl.

Other less conspicuous, yet equally spirited students included Laura Bendixsen as a bunny, Ryan Hall and Sonja van der Wel teaming up as Minnie and Mickey Mouse, Dan Lynch as a soldier, and Mark Palmer as a beautiful young woman in a skimpy bikini. Mr. Kauzer, the one teacher who can be counted on for his consistently imaginative costumes, "caught" many a strange look as he posed as a "Human Catcher" rather than the traditional butterfly catcher.

Glen Gravett carves out a masterpiece for the seniors.

A FEAST FIT FOR KINGS

Trent Walker is a chocolate chip kind of man.

Sean enjoys his salad.

When that bell rings at 12:15 for lunch, many students have been working hard in preparing a great deal of food for Monte Vista's hungry students. As the line grows, the crowd of students gets more demanding for the choice of foods prepared by the ROP catering class. Foods include the standard hamburger and fries, as well as the more exotic taco salads and chow mein.

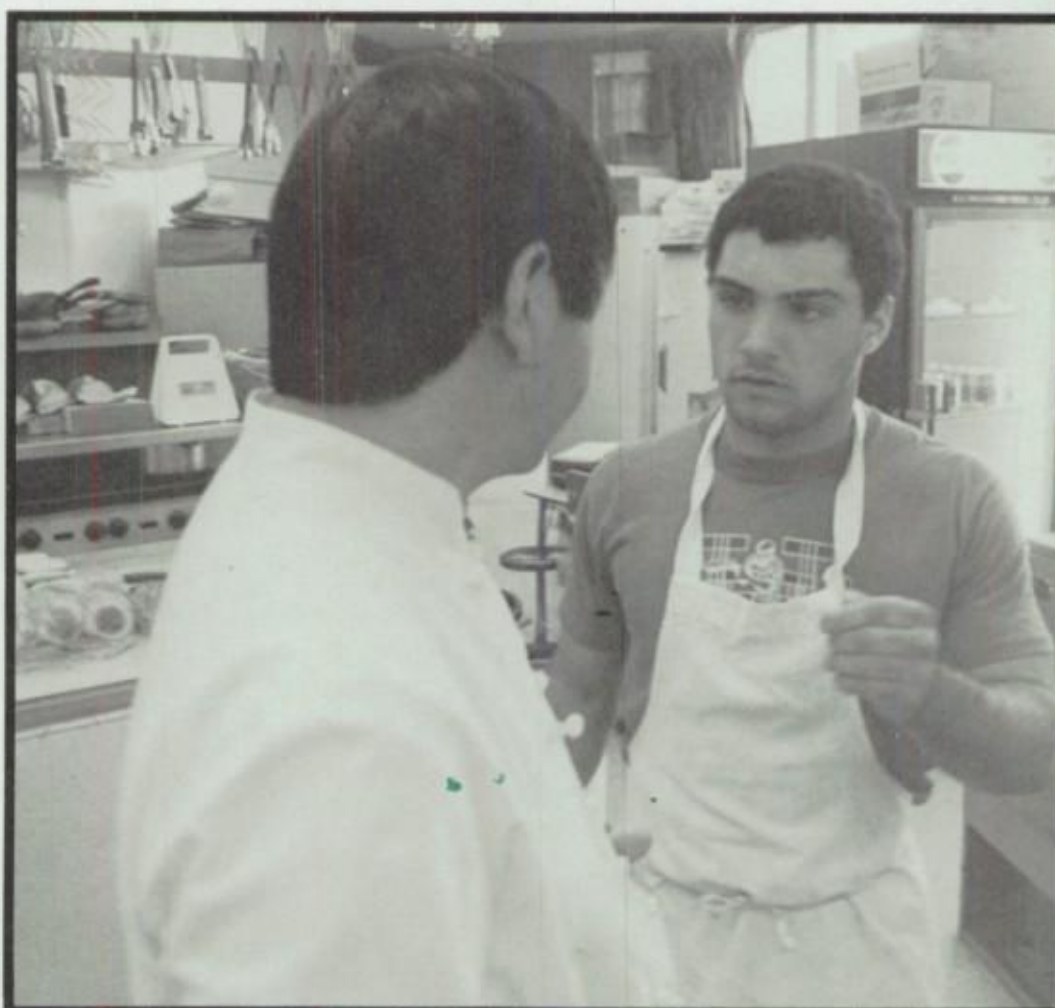

Feast not only provides nourishment to Monte Vista students, but it's a Regional Occupational Program in which students learn how to plan for parties and how to carry out actual catering. The class is open to students as well as to adults who wish to participate.

The money which is earned through the operation of Feast is used to pay for field trips and to purchase new equipment. Ray Leong, director and main chef since 1972, puts a great deal of time into the program, not to mention, an enormous amount of trust in the students who are part of the program.

I'm sure that by now everyone has noticed that, yes, there are people here at Monte Vista who are even smaller than Freshmen. These little people range in age from 4-6 years and are part of a class designed to teach high school students to deal with children-ROP Child Care.

Building with blocks, playing on the swings and learning new games are all a major part of the class. The high school students are expected to come up with a lesson plan that will keep the kids busy and at the same time teach them something of importance. These lesson plans usually revolve around the art, cooking and puzzle tables, although you can often find everyone involved in such activities as listening to records or working on the new Apple IIe computer.

On Fridays, none of the little kids come and this gives the students a chance to learn emergency care and other special skills. They learn how important these considerations can be.

"The class is a lot of fun," said Joanne Gura. "It really gives you a chance to work with the little kids and it makes you look at everything from their perspective."

It must be tough coming to a school filled with people that look huge to you, so even though they are smaller than the Freshmen next year, try not to pick on them. They sure are cute!

MAKE A BETTER MOUSETRAP!

Christopher Wren (Chris Nolan) taunts Mrs. Boyle (Jodi Kealy), while Mr. Paravicini (Jeff Bernstein) looks on.

Sargent Trotter (Dan Ganse) questions the tenants about the murder.

THE CAST

Giles Ralston (Steve Jones) gets angry at Mr. Paravicini (Jeff Bernstein) after he intrigues Mollie Ralston (Katy Costello).

Mollie Ralston (Katy Costello) finds Mrs. Boyle (Jodi Kealy) dead, after she was murdered.

Giles Ralston (Steve Jones) and Christopher Wren (Chris Nolan) argue while Mollie Ralston (Katy Costello) stands back.

The Monte Vista Drama Department had another success with their production of The Mousetrap by Agatha Christie. The play holds the record for the most continuous running performances anywhere. Since 1952 it has delighted London audiences and M.V. had the pleasure of hosting the production here this Spring.

"The Mousetrap" is set in a small English suburb, in a boarding house during a snow storm. In this boarding house there are four guests, two owners and a police officer, one of whom is a murderer. Everyone becomes a suspect at Monkswell Manor when a murder is committed.

Mollie Ralston (Katie Cos- tello) and Giles Ralston (Stephen Jones), owners of the inn, become confused and frustrated as everyone becomes crazy after the murder. Christopher Wren (Christopher Nolan) finds the whole thing terribly amusing and keeps himself in good cheer with an occasional nursery rhyme. Miss Casewell (Chelsea McNichols), Major Metcalf (Todd Parmley) and Mr. Paravicini (Jeff Bernstein) all deny their involvement in the whole affair when Detective Sargeant Trotter (Dan Ganse) arrives to investigate. Mrs. Boyle (Jody Kealy) adds to the frustration with her snobbish attitude and high standards.

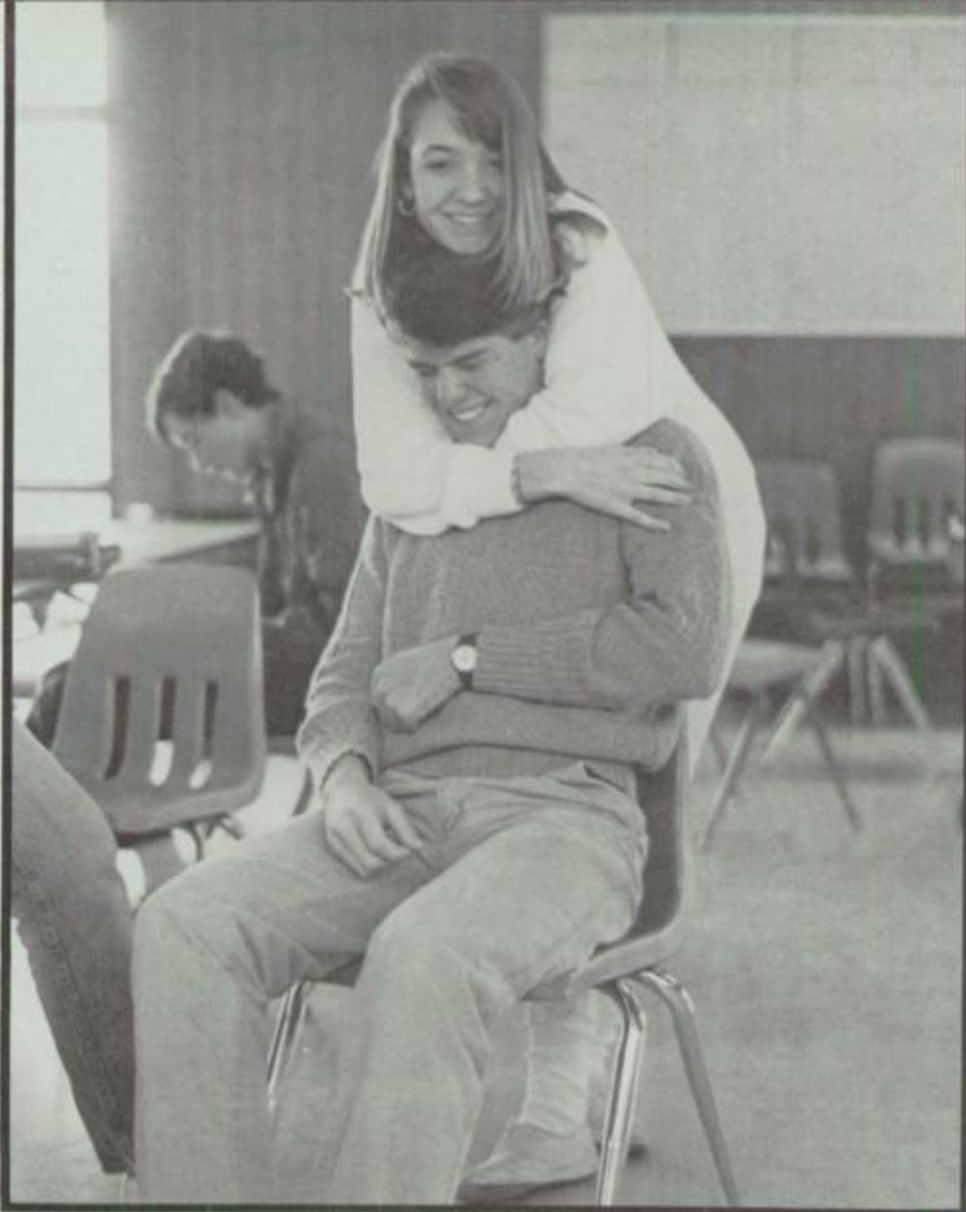

The ability of the Drama Department continues to increase with each production, and we're all looking forward to their next show.

Future Homemakers Of America

Future Homemakers of America is a club geared toward the future. Students are taught the necessities of life: how to cook, clean and sew. They then use these new-found skills to enter different competitions all around the Bay Area.

In this year's competition, that took place on February 7 at Half Moon Bay High School, Monte Vista received significant recognition. Using their newly acquired skills, these students received awards: Per Orren and Don Conroy for their amazing Hero Salads; Kathy Wathen, Sean Havercroft, and Jason Johnson for their Chef's Salad; Laurie Grantz and Hwei-Yu Yang for their innate ability for interior design; Lisa Moldenhauer received a silver medal for her patience and understanding in child care; Tracy Towner and Marc Baroux both received awards for their business-like attitudes in their job application and interviewing skills, and Stephanie Kurteff and Whitney Walker received a silver medal in the team event of nutrition education.

The FHA has achieved a lot this year, but hopes to get even more students involved next year.

This year we are publishing a supplement to the yearbook. With these extra pages of coverage we present for your information and pleasure some of people and events which take place late in the school year and are therefore often unavailable for publication in the regular pages of the book.
